13 KILLED IN DIRIGIBLE CRASH

Hull Denies Foreign Alliances, Navy Pacts

ANSWERS 'NO' TO SENATE'S ARMS QUERIES

Secretary's Letter Says No 'Understanding' Existing Between U. S., Britain.

ANSWERS 3 QUESTIONS

Asserts Navy Not Involved In Agreement In Message Read to Senators.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary Hull in a letter to Senator Pittman (D., Nev.) denied today that the United States had any agreement with Great Britain "relating to war or the possibility of war."

The secretary of state also denied that this country is bound by any agreement with any power in connection with operations of the navy.

Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, read Hull's letter to the senate. It gave the specific answer "no" to three questions which Senator Johnson (R., Cal.) had framed in a resolution offered the senate yesterday.

Questions Listed.

Johnson had asked whether there was an "understanding" between the United States and Great Britain regarding measures to be taken in the event of war; whether there was any alliance which would call for use of the navy "in conjunction with any other country"; and whether there was an agreement by which the navy would do patrol duty in any particular ocean or section of an ocean.

Pittman previously had predicted that the foreign relations committee would support Johnson's request for the information.

Pittman read the letter a short time after Admiral William D. Leahy said today the United States could "very profitably" engage in development of dirigibles, but advocated leaving such experimentation to commercial agencies for the present.

The navy's chief of operations, testifying for the seventh consecutive day before the senate naval committee, said the navy was not interested in the dirigible as a weapon of war.

TAKES STAND

Wright's Mother-In-Law to Testify at Murder Trial.

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Paul A. Wright's mother-in-law, Mrs. Edith McBride, a thin, aging woman dressed in black, took the witness stand against him today at his trial on charges of murdering his wife and John B. Kimmel.

Mrs. McBride came from Detroit for the trial and has been in court every day for more than three weeks while Wright was described by the state as a jealous, wanton slayer, and by the defense as a man who killed in blind passion when he found his wife and Kimmel in an obscene sexual embrace.

Prosecutor Ernest Roll called Mrs. McBride to refute Wright's explanation of having himself sterilized to protect his wife's health. The mother-in-law said Wright had commented in her presence that he wanted no more children.

MRS. HAHN TO FILE NEW PLEA

Appeal to Supreme Court Next Move in Poison Murder.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Anna Marie Hahn's fight to escape the electric chair was headed today toward an Ohio supreme court test.

Losing her case in the court of appeals yesterday, attorneys for the blond 31-year-old former hotel maid said they would appeal to the highest state court and the "U. S. supreme court if necessary."

Mrs. Hahn, convicted last November of the murder by poison of 76-year-old Jacob Wagner, retired gardener, burst into tears as she read reports of the decision in the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus.

She is scheduled to die March 10.

PLANTS BOMBED

Detroit Laundries Under Guard After Violent Attacks.

DETROIT—(AP)—Two Detroit laundry plants were bombed today and police guards were ordered immediately at four other establishments.

Executives of the damaged laundries said they had no labor disputes, had indulged in no price cutting and had not laid off any men.

FLOODS ROLL UP HEAVY DAMAGE

(By International News Service)

Midwinter floods in large sections of the middle west and as far east as New York state continued today to roll up a heavy toll of property damage and suffering.

With dropping temperatures that brought an end to the weekend rain, most sections appeared to have weathered the worst of the disturbance.

But in New York state the situation was still acute along the Mohawk river valley. Low lying farmlands around Amsterdam were flooded over a wide area and an ice jam in the city itself bulged over the banks and partially crushed a factory before it moved downstream menacing bridges enroute.

Gas service in the city was cut off with water standing 12 feet deep in some sections, where the marooned residents were rescued in rowboats. Streets in Fonda and Fort Johnson were likewise flooded.

The gorged rivers in some Illinois localities were still rising slowly today but the water was falling upstream.

Factories at Sterling were put out of commission as several feet of water swirled through the ground floors and dozens of families moved to higher ground.

PAY TRIBUTE TO SLAIN PASTOR

Georgia Congregation Mourns Minister; Probe Launched.

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga.—(AP)—Parishioners of Old Christ church gathered today to bury vice-fighting Dr. Charles H. Lee as Coroner J. D. Baldwin promised to "get at the bottom" of the rector's slaying "if we have to call every man and woman on St. Simons."

The 71-year-old Episcopal churchman was killed by a shot from the dark as he sat working over a sermon in the rectory Saturday night.

Coroner Baldwin, taking cognizance of the theory of friends that the rector's candid comments on wrong-doing might lay back of the killing, said he ordered the inquest for Wednesday specifically "to find out about all the evil doing on the island."

STATE SENDS AID, SMALLPOX CASES CLIMB

Three Specialists Assist In Inoculations as 11 More Pupils Are Taken Ill.

IMMUNIZATIONS CONTINUE

Vaccinations at City Health Department Total 3,000; 23 Cases In All.

Two more state health department specialists were called to Mansfield today as the outbreak of smallpox reached graver proportions.

Eleven new cases of the disease were reported in the 24 hours ending at noon today, bringing the total confined with the contagion to 23. Twelve cases had been reported at the rate of four a day, since Friday noon.

While all the cases reported were school children, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said the schools would remain open.

Inoculate Until Midnight.

Health authorities after working at the city building until midnight last night moved to Newman and Beer school in Madison township today when two cases were found at Beer school and one at Newman. The others were all Madison township high school students.

Yesterday nearly 1,300 pupils at John Simpson Junior high school were immunized as Dr. Rehder ordered the vaccination of 6,600 pupils in the Mansfield schools.

The mandatory order was issued following a meeting with Superintendent of Schools W. L. Miller and the board of education yesterday noon. The only exemption allowed will be proof of a successful vaccination within the past five years, the commissioner said.

Physicians' Offices Crowded.

Dr. Rehder announced that more than 3,000 persons had been immunized by the health department in the past three days. No report has been received of the number of persons inoculated by private physicians whose offices were crowded.

SHOWDOWN DUE

Graft Hunters Prepare For Horn Trial Today.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The senate graft investigating committee prepared for a showdown today with Glenn A. Horn, state purchasing agent, cited for contempt for his refusal to answer questions regarding coal purchases.

Counsel for the committee laid the groundwork for carrying out its order of last week demanding that Horn appear before the bar of the senate at 2:30 p. m. today to stand trial.

Horn yesterday reiterated his statement that he would not testify before the committee unless he was allowed representation by counsel.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Clarence M. Addison, attorney for State Purchasing Agent Glenn A. Horn, today said he would file an application for a writ of habeas corpus in Franklin county common pleas court if the senate investigating committee served Horn with a warrant for his arrest.

Lewis and Green Close Doors To Peace in U. S. Labor Ranks

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis and William Green slammed all doors to reconciliation today, and threw the CIO and American Federation of Labor into conflict more bitter than ever.

There appeared today no recourse for the two forces but war.

This has been apparent for some time, but when the federation executive council in Miami formally expelled the United Mine Workers, Lewis' own union, and two other CIO unions the gage was publicly thrown on the battlefield. There will be little more shadow boxing over peace proposals; each side is out to exterminate the other, observers said.

Results will become apparent as summer approaches, when new organization plans of the CIO and A. F. of L. are put into action. The A. F. of L. mapped its program at the executive council meeting. The CIO will follow suit at its first convention, which may be held within the next 90 days.

The CIO could act faster but it was explained Lewis and his aids have just begun their tussle with "big steel" over new contracts. Once that is out of the way, the CIO will swing into action.

First moves by the Lewis forces will bring formal chartering of the CIO as a labor organization, and the drafting of a constitution. Already, the skeleton of such an organization is shaped. In many

Little Danger Now of War In Europe, Institute Told

Colton Asserts Only Five Powers Likely to Start One and They Have Reasons for Not Wanting War.

Despite the sharp differences in government policies and the rise of ambitious leaders in recent years, there is little immediate danger of a continental war in Europe, Ethan Colton, nationally-known authority on international problems, told an audience last ight at Mansfield high school auditorium.

Colton, who recently returned from Europe where he studied the economic and social scenes, was the first of five speakers to appear in Mansfield in an Institute of International Understanding sponsored by the Rotary and University clubs. His address on "Behind the Headlines In Europe" was heard by an audience of 800.

Names Major Powers.

Explaining that only five major powers — England, France, Italy, Germany or Soviet Russia—would be likely to start another war in Europe, Colton said each of them has a good reason for not wanting war.

"Europeans actually hate war worse than we do in the United States," he said, "but a nation in Europe must have a dangerous military establishment if it is to mean anything in politics. Most of them through the centuries have been forced to protect their borders or to fight to relieve internal pressure."

An advocate of a strong offense as a good defense, Colton said the League of Nations has served a purpose in settling diferences between little countries that could have grown into major wars.

"The League hasn't been able to handle the great powers, but its machinery has been useful in

LAST OF GARR BROTHERS FREED

State Drops Charges, Closing Drama of Blue Grass.

SHELBYVILLE, Ky. — (U.P.) — The final chapter of a living story of Blue Grass honor and passion was written today with the acquittal of Dr. E. S. Garr, La Grange, Ky., veterinarian on a charge of having assassinated Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt here last Sept. 20.

The murder charges against Dr. Garr were dismissed upon motion of Attorney General Hubert H. Meredith who told the court that, in his opinion, it would be impossible to obtain a conviction in the case.

Dr. Garr's brothers, Roy and Jack, were acquitted of the slaying of Gen. Denhardt last October when they pleaded "self defense." Dr. Garr was too ill to stand trial at that time.

LOU HOLDS OUT

Gehrig Spurns Yank Contract, Demands $40,000 Salary.

NEW YORK—(AP)—"Larrupin Lou" Gehrig, ironman first baseman of the New York Yankees, joined the world champions' fast growing holdout list today, rejecting owner Jake Ruppert's offer of $36,000 again this year and demanding an increase of 15 per cent, or roughly, $40,000.

Ruppert, a bit irritated, told baseball writers that he would stick by his offers of $36,000 to Gehrig and $25,000 to Joe DiMaggio, who is holding out for $40,000.

"They won't get a cent more and that's final," said the colonel. "They can take it or leave it."

Ruppert and Gehrig were closeted for almost an hour without getting anywhere.

VIGILANTE GROUP HUNTS MANIAC

Citizens Help Police In Search for Night Prowler.

FOSTORIA, O.—(U.P.)—A vigilante group of 50 citizens armed with shotguns last night supplemented the Fostoria police in an attempt to capture a maniac who has been terrorizing women here in the past week.

The group surrounded the home of Mrs. Joseph Hornic last night, 10 minutes after she called police that the maniac, armed with a blue steel automatic, had attempted to force her to let him into her house.

It was the fifth time within the past four days that the maniac has annoyed women here.

Last Wednesday and Thursday nights he attempted to attack three women in the street.

WARD DRAWING UP SEWAGE BILL

Prepares New Personnel Measure as Hunter Lays Plans For Special Meeting.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter today was preparing to submit to council at a special meeting, to be called probably a week from Friday, two measures dealing with the sewage disposal plant operations.

One measure calling for the renewal of the ordinance that creates the positions and fixes the salaries, Hunter said, was being prepared by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward today. The present measure expires March 8.

Hunter said he would also present to council a measure calling for the re-hiring of J. G. Collier, Elyria, as technical supervisor of the plant, to assist J. R. Turner who was appointed to succeed J. P. Sotherland, who resigned Saturday.

The measure will set the salary of the technical supervisor at $125 a month, Hunter said, and calls for visits at the plant at least once each week.

Although recent recommendations of the state health board called for the appointment of an experienced sewage plant engineer, F. H. Waring, chief engineer, said the board would approve the appointment of Turner if a technical advisor were retained for a period of a year.

Collier served for six months as technical supervisor to Sotherland.

Inmate Held, Admits He's Girl's Slayer

Youth Transferred From Reformatory to Face Special Grand Jury.

BULLETIN

ELYRIA—(AP)—Sheriff William Grall said today that Edward Hensley, a 22-year-old trusty from the Grafton prison farm, had confessed in a signed statement to the assault-slaying last October of Louise Hornbeck, 19-year-old Grafton dentist's assistant.

A Mansfield Reformatory inmate who was transferred to Grafton honor camp 18 months ago was being held in Lorain county jail today, following his alleged confession of the murder of Miss Louise Hornbeck of Grafton, who was killed last Oct. 18.

The honor camp inmate is the third person who has "confessed" the Hornbeck slaying. One of them has been committed as criminally insane.

The arrest of the new suspect, against whom no charge has been placed as yet, followed his admission that he attacked another girl in Grafton last Friday near the spot where the Hornbeck slaying took place.

Tells of Slaying.

Accused of the Hornbeck slaying, the youth, according to Sheriff William F. Grall, confessed hitting Miss Hornbeck over the head with a beer bottle, dragging her into a brush-grown lot and criminally assaulting her.

At the Grafton camp, it was learned that the youth, now 22, had been absent from the camp where he was employed as a "house man" for C. H. Swan, farm superintendent, for a time Friday night. He was also absent about the time Miss Hornbeck was killed.

Lorain County Prosecutor Howard Butler announced that a special grand jury will be called to consider evidence against the youth, who was taken to Massillon yesterday afternoon and declared sane after an examination by Dr. Arthur G. Hyde, head of Massillon State hospital.

The inmate was originally sentenced to Mansfield Reformatory on March 27, 1935, on a charge of robbery, to serve from 10 to 25 years. He was transferred to Grafton 18 months ago, because of his good behavior record.

MEET AT O. B.

Directors Hold First Session Since Death of Founder.

Directors of the Ohio Brass company were to meet at the company's Mansfield offices this afternoon for their annual meeting, the first held since the death last December of Frank B. Black, founder of the company and the chairman of its board.

Although no official comment was forthcoming before the meeting, scheduled for 2 p. m., it was reported that the directors would not take action at today's session to elect a new chairman, but would approve continuance of operations under the present setup with C. K. King as president and George Draffan as executive vice president.

The late Mr. Black had been chairman of the board since 1928, at which time the post was created. King became president at that time.

Parole Inquiry's Puzzle Now—Duffy Doesn't Know Answer!

Puzzle—When will the special grand jury investigation of the Ohio parole system—started but unfinished both in Richland and Franklin counties—be resumed?

No one seems to know the answer, least of all Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, who is in charge of the investigation, but who called a halt when the legislature failed to act on his request for funds to continue his work.

Of course, if the legislature would appropriate the money, the inquiry would be resumed. But the house has twice turned down allocations of $20,000, and until the house changes its mind, Duffy doesn't know when the probe will be resumed.

Asked when the inquiry might be resumed, Duffy said "I have nothing to say regarding that." And Assistant Attorney General George Hurley, who was in charge of the Richland county investigation while Duffy was on a vacation, said "The parole probe is in charge of Mr. Duffy."

The Richland county grand jury was recessed suddenly last Wednesday, after having spent 12 days in session, submitting no report. The Franklin county jury was in session five weeks, and submitted a partial report.

SOVIET CRAFT PLUNGES INTO MOUNTAIN TOP

Russia's Biggest Air Carrier Stalked by Tragedy on Test Run For Mercy Flight.

PLANNED ARCTIC RESCUE

3 of Crew Survive Mishap as Airmen Plan Aid to 4 Men Adrift on Ice Floe.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW — Thirteen men of a crew of 18 were killed when Russia's biggest dirigible crashed into a mountain on a trial flight preparatory to a dash to the rescue of four scientists drifting on a small ice floe off Greenland, it was announced today.

Three ice breakers were on the way to pick up the four scientists, fighting their way through Arctic ice. But the position of the scientists, who had drifted more than 1,000 miles southward from the North Pole, was becoming desperate.

Headed for Arctic.

The government had made arrangements for the big dirigible USSR-V6 to land on the ice and rescue the four men. The USSR-V6 took off from Moscow on a trial flight to Murmansk, on the Arctic coast.

The dirigible met at area of bad visibility and crashed into a mountain near Kandalaksha, 177 miles from Murmansk. Thirteen of the crew were killed, it was announced, and three were seriously injured. Two escaped unharmed.

The USSR-V6 was 345 feet long and 60 feet in diameter. It had a gas capacity of 19,000 cubic meters. It was built in 1934.

According to plan, the USSR-V6 was to have flown to Murmansk and back to Moscow, and then started its dash for the Greenland coast. The dirigible's crew had appealed to the government for permission to make the flight, and in view of the increasingly serious situation of the men on the ice floe the permission had been given. Norway had offered to give any aid possible, so the government obtained permission for the dirigible to base on Norwegian territory.

In announcing the crash, the government said the victims would be given a state funeral and that their families had been awarded 10,000 roubles (nominally $2,000) each and life pensions.

Off Greenland Coast.

The USSR-V6 tragedy added to

Girls, 20 and 17, Battle To Escape Death In Chair

NEWARK, N. J. —(U.P.)— Mannish, 20-year-old Mrs. Ethel (Bunny) Sohl and her reformatory pal, Genevieve (Chippy) Owens, 17, fought for life in court today as the state demanded the death penalty for the hold-up slaying of William Barhorst, a bus driver, that netted them $2.10.

Essex County Prosecutor William A. Wachenfeld rejected a surprise offer by Mrs. Sohl's attorney to enter a plea of guilty to second-degree murder, which would entail a penalty of 10 to 20 years in prison.

"This is murder in the first degree, and it admits of no compromise," Wachenfield said.

Mrs. Sohl, her straight "muddy" blond hair cut in severe mannish style, sat with eyes downcast as the prosecutor demanded two lives for one. Miss Owens alternately wept and smiled.

The two girls met in a reform school last year, and formed a close friendship. When released, they embarked on a crime career that ended with the murder of Barhorst on the night of Dec. 21. He was shot through the heart with a .22 caliber rifle.

JEWELS STOLEN

Wife of Financier Reports Theft of $100,000 in Gems.

PALM BEACH — (AP) — Police Chief Joe Borman said today Mrs. Philip D. Hill of London, well known golfer and wife of the British financier, reported the theft of almost $100,000 in jewels from her Palm Beach home. The jewels were taken sometime Sunday afternoon, he said.

Several thousands of dollars worth of other jewels were left on a dressing table in the same room, untouched, Borman said.

ART DIRECTOR SUES

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — In Hollywood, a mere $1,000 a month isn't enough to "keep up" with the film notables. Such was the basis of a divorce complaint on file today, brought by Alfred E. Freudman, movie art director, against his wife, Jane Freudman.

Ohio Education Association Enlists Help of 40,000 to Battle Campaign.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Leading school interests disclosed today they have started a state-wide campaign to block a proposed constitutional amendment which would outlaw all exzcise sales taxes in Ohio except the tax on gasoline.

The Ohio Education association, powerful school organization, sent notices to its 40,000 members asking them to work for defeat of the plan, contending its adoption would deprive the schools of "more than $32,000,000 in revenue and wreck the school foundation system.

The foundation plan costs about $49,000,000 annually, but at present has a $6,000,000 deficit, according to figures of the state education department.

Committee Launches Drive.

The amendment is sponsored by a committee of Akron residents, including Dr. Oscar Hayes, Daniel E. Falkner, and Albert E Booth. To put the issue on the November ballot they must secure 300,000 signatures on initiative petitions by August 9 with signatures representing petitioners in at least 44 counties. If adopted the amendment would become effective in January, 1939.

Walton Bliss, executive secretary of the O. E. A., said its officers were "alarmed" by reports that backers of the amendment have been working actively in northern and southern Ohio. In a "pre-print" taken from its publication, Ohio Schools, the O. E. A. said adoption of the proposed amendment would:

Eliminate the sales tax which provided nearly ,$23,000,000 for schools last year; abolish the cigaret tax from which schools drew $8,000,000; and ban the "use" and part of the liquid fuel tax which produced $1,250,000 for schools.

Schools Hit Hardest.

"Schools have the biggest stake in the fate of this amendment, but there are other victims if this proposition gains public approval," the O. E. A. notice said.

"Local governments received over $15,000,000 from the sales tax in 1937. The people on relief received $10,000,000. In sum total there is almost $58,000,000 in revenue that the voters will have an opportunity to eliminate if this proposal goes on the ballot."

The association noted that no alternative taxes were proposed to replace those whcih the amendment would remove, and said "it is hard to conceive of a proposal that can contribute more to the utter demoralization of essential services than this one."

Police on all shifts have a preoccupied look these days because they have "come a cropper" on an order from their chief, Meade K. Bates. He ordered them to pick up Fred Johnson and gave them a tip as to where he might possibly be found. He isn't any of the Johnsons listed in the city directory or telephone book, Bates told them, so they are starting from scratch in their sleuthing. Every time two policemen get together the first question is: "Have you found Johnson?" As a matter of fact "Johnson" is to the police force today what "Elmer" is to the American Legion during national conventions. The chief refuses to comment on the case—but he DOES suppress a chuckle every time "Johnson" is mentioned, and he's promised to "bust" the case wide open in a day or two.

LEADERS PRESS FOR QUICK VOTE AMID PROTESTS

Revised Land Restrictions Cause Controversy; Senate Gets Measure Tomorrow.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Administration leaders attempted to force the revised farm bill through the house today under strict debate limitations despite protests of some members that a "gag" was being applied.

The rules committee asked house members to agree to vote on the bill after five hours' discussion, without amending it or objecting to individual provisions.

Rep. Martin (R., Mass.), assistant minority leader, said, "If that isn't a gag rule there never was one."

Rep. Short (R., Mo.) charged that the administration was attempting to "cram down our throats a 121-page bill which members had not had time to examine.

Some Democrats joined Republicans and Progressives in declaring that the measure differed materially from either the senate or house bills passed in December.

Protest Changes.

Chairman Jones (D., Tex.) said yesterday that the revised measure conformed generally to the original house bill, but many members disagreed. Jones said immediate enactment was necessary if crop control provisions were to become effective before the planting season begins.

The greatest controversy was over the McNary-Boileau amendment, designed to prevent land taken from soil-depleting crops from being used to feed dairy cattle.

The conference committee modified the provision, leading a number of members from dairy states to declare their opposition to the entire bill. They said the modification would permit the spread of dairying to new regions and thus increase competition.

If the house approves the bill, it probably will be taken up by the senate tomorrow. After its consideration in that chamber, administration leaders expect to propose shelving of the anti-lynching bill.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Mr. Roosevelt and Congress.

IN A FEW DAYS the president is expected to send to congress a "business-reform" message which may make "good reading" but which not many believe will greatly change the situation. While its contents have been discussed for weeks, no one knows what it will contain, nor even the direction in which it will point. There has been so much contradictory advice that the clouds of confusion about the White House are very thick, indeed.

THE CHRONIC press conference cheerfulness of Mr. Roosevelt does not dispel the fog, though it helps maintain, among the undiscerning, the thin illusion of competency. For example, at one time there was to have been a ringing denunciation of trusts and monopolies, with strong recommendations—a la Jackson—for their dismemberment and control. Later, the Richberg plan, by which these great industrial units were to become self-regulatory under a benign federal supervision, was considered. And there are other ideas. No one can tell which school of advisers will prevail; nor, as has so often happened in this administration, whether the final production will not be a compromise, in which the effort will be to reconcile the irreconcilable.

HOWEVER, THERE IS reason to regard two things as fairly certain. One is that Mr. Roosevelt will not put himself behind any of the really radical proposals, such as are now pressed upon him by certain of the more brilliant but less balanced of his counselors, because there would be no chance of getting them through congress—and he knows it. Not only that—but a radical recommendation at this time would cause a real reaction in congress and accelerate the coalition movement, which has more to it than is generally believed. On the other hand, the president cannot bring himself to take strongly the conservative course—repeal of the surplus tax; return of relief administration to the states; economy; less governmental regulation, competition and interference—because those things seem a surrender to his critics and an acknowledgment of mistakes.

IF THIS IS the case—and there is sound ground for believing it—then it means futility for the rest of this session, just as the anti-lynching bill has meant futility for the first six weeks. There are, as Senator Bailey, of North Carolina, pointed out the other day, worse things. If this congress should pass the kind of tax bill now urged by both big and little business, and then make the necessary appropriations for the departments and relief, an adjustment without the enactment of either the monstrous crop-control bill, the wage-and-hour control bill or any other pending legislative proposition would be rather a boon to the country.

PERHAPS that is too much to hope for, as the crop-control bill, the extraordinay contents of which are not generally grasped by the people and but little understood by their representatives in congress, has already passed both branches and is now in the conference committee. Nevertheless, this measure will be enacted more under the whip of the exceedingly powerful farm lobby than because the administration is for it. Most observers agree that the Roosevelt influence no longer dominates congress and that the depression has deepened the conservative tendency in both senate and house

NOR IS THERE much question that resistance to White House pressure has been stiffened by the significant demonstration in Washington last week that the "little business men," supposed to be overwhelmingly New Deal, actually are overwhelmingly the other way—sore as pups about governmental interference and administration policies generally; anxious to be "let alone" and asserting that the best thing the administration could do is to "light somewhere and stop flitting about like a canary bird." That language, used in one set of "little men" resolutions was straighter talk than anything that has come from Big Business—and it meant more "up on Capitol Hill" There, they argue, if the "little business men" feel that way, it is a reflection of the people Because, after all, this is a business country—and always will be.

PLANS TRIBUTE TO FIRESTONE

Akron, Scene of Rubber King's Triumph, Arranges Funeral Services For Friday.

(By International News Service)

AKRON—This city, scene of his greatest industrial triumphs, will pay last tribute to Harvey S. Firestone Thursday and Friday, according to plans completed today.

The body will lie in state at his Akron home, Harbel Manor, Thursday, after its arrival in the morning on a special train from Miami. Firestone died in Miami Beach yesterday.

Rev. Walter F. Tunks, rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church, will conduct funeral services at 10 a. m. Friday. Burial will be at Columbiana, O., Firestone's birthplace.

Russell R. Firestone, son of the industrialist, was in Miami with his father and mother when his father died. Two other sons, Raymond and Roger, have left to join their mother and brother, while Leonard and Harvey S. Firestone, jr., the remaining two sons, remained here to complete funeral arrangements.

Active head of the Firestone Tire & Rubber company now is John W. Thomas, president of the company for six years. Firestone served as chairman of the board during this period.

FINDS OHIO'S JOBLESS YOUTHS PREFER STEADY JOB TO HIGH PAY

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Unemployed Ohio youth, tired of loafing, regards a steady job as more important to happiness than wages.

S. Burns Weston, state director of the National Youth administration, said today in an interview that this view was held by virtually all NYA supervisors in the state.

Their opinions were expressed, he said, in comment on data obtained in a study designed to determine what affect part-timeNYA work projects had on the development of morale in young members of needy Ohio families.

The material was gleaned mainly from questionnaires answered by 1,000 young persons between 18 and 25 years of age in the "out-of-school" classification.

Weston said the survey represented a good cross-section of the monthly average of 6,000 young persons engaged in Ohio NYA work projects last year at an average expense to the federal government of $147,000 per month. The projects included clerical, manual, skilled, nursery, home economics and other activities

"Unemployment tends toward more serious social and psychological implications for young people than for adults," Weston said.

He predicted a total of 6,500 on Ohio NYA rolls for February, an increase of about 500 over January, with only $123,597 to finance projects. The state NYA peak was reached in November, 1936, when 8,500 received aid.

Weston said that the latest survey showed definitely that young persons assisted by NYA projects increased their self-confidence through display of greater purposefulness, interest, energy, alertness and aggressiveness.

Young people to obtain NYA aid must be certified by local relief offices as being from families in need of aid, receiving relief or public assistance in some form.

VICTORIAN CLUB HEARS TALK ON YOUTH GROUPS

Mrs. Wolcott Presents Paper Considering Six Different Movements; Mrs. Huston Leads Discussion of Constitution.

CONSIDERING "Youth Rehabilitation," Mrs. Mark Wolcott presented the paper at the meeting of the Victorian club yesterday at the home of Mrs. D. A. Weir, Sherman avenue. Preceding Mrs. Wolcott's talk, Mrs. Charles Huston gave a brief paper on the constitution and led group discussion.

In the talk on youth movements Mrs. Wolcott spoke of the 4-H clubs, various boys' clubs of America, the Youth Forum being conducted by the Mansfield churches, the Civilian Conservation Corps, foreign youth movements, and the Boy Scouts.

The first group of clubs represents the young people of farming and rural communities. These 4-H clubs have been organized to promote an interest in scientific farming and housekeeping among young people of the rural communities. Generally speaking, boys' clubs included the various organizations connected with or sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. in addition to fraternal and honorary groups.

For binding together in a common cause or for a principle, these groups, which include older boys and young men, are considered as a major force, Mrs. Wolcott pointed out.

Many believe that the C. C. C. camps have done much to avoid alarming youth uprising here, however, if it is well known that the organizations have done much to give young men employment, and a new social outlook on life. The contacts and the interests thus developed in young America are important, according to the paper.

Foreign youth movements and the regimentation of the youth in the various communistic and fascist countries was then considered. In conclusion Mrs. Wolcott spoke on the Boy Scout movement. This was especially significant because this is the 28th anniversary of the organization which embraces hundreds of thousands of young and adolescent boys throughout the world.

Red and white carnations centered the table at which tea was served. Mrs. John Graham and Mrs. Victor Smith presided. The next meeting will be Feb. 21 at the home of Mrs. John Finefrock, Park avenue west.

New Materials, Whimsical Details Mark 1938 Suits

There's many a new wrinkle in the suits for the spring of 1938. There are new materials or materials that look new; new whimsical little details that make one sit up and take notice, new trimmings. The Molyneux model at the left is in "honeycomb wool," and is suggested as the perfect costume suit in which to enter the 1938 spring fashion contest. It is developed in "string," the newest smartest and most adaptable neutral. The tone of the amber clips at the neck and belt of the dress are repeated in the accessories of blond calf. Wide borders of self ruching are applied in a lovely flower pattern down the tuxedo front of the full-length coat and are repeated in a neck to hem dress band. This slick-as-a-whistle suit at the right is from Alix and is made of epongo amusingly edged with shiny braid which even nips in the waist and fastened with licorice candy buttons.

Should She Return To Husband?

By VIRGINIA LEE.

"DEAR MISS LEE. I am a married woman of 25, married eight years, have a child two years old. I was always happy until about a year ago my husband changed He would come home two or three nights a week drunk, and if I said a word he would hit me.

"I took that for about three months until it got on my nerves so one night I took my baby and left him. I want to know if I should ever go back again?

"E. M. R."

That is for you to answer, E. M. R If his actions have killed your love for him, maybe you shouldn't go back. What has become of him? Has your leaving caused him to stop drinking? Has he asked you to come back? Does the baby miss him?

How did he happen to start to drink? And isn't it odd the effect drink has on an ordinarily good kind man? It is a very tragic thing to live with a man who drinks and becomes violent. It can make a once happy home a hell on earth.

It is very sad for you two young people to be separated, however, and the baby needs his dad —or is he a girl? If your husband wants you to come back to him, and promises to try to do better couldn't you go back and do your best to help him overcome his taste for strong drink? Maybe by now he realizes that if he keeps on drinking his life will be spoiled

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I read your column almost daily and appreciate it very much. I have a story to relate in contract to one that appeared in the paper, of how a man and wife can live happily although of different faiths

"Mary is a Catholic and Ed a non-Catholic. All went well until their children came of school age Ed said they must go to public school; Mary knew that where a school of her faith was available it was her duty to send them there. Mary won out.

"When the children were to take part in a little play, the father was invited as a special guest He told one of his neighbors that it was the finest thing he ever saw. He said he never knew little children could be so well trained Ed and Mary lived happily ever after

"AN OBSERVER."

That reminds me of a book I read a long time ago called "The Bishop's Carriage," in which the splendid life of the bishop converted a skeptic to his faith. It is deeds not words that count, isn't it?

Turkey Chow Mein.

One package fine noodles, three cups leftover turkey, cut in strips; four tablespoons oil, four cups celery, shredded; one cup onion, sliced; four cups meat stock, two tablespoons cornstarch, four tablespoons soy bean sauce, salt, pepper. Cook noodles in boiling salted water five minutes. Drain and dip in cold water. Drain and dry on towel. Fry in deep fat (about 390 degrees) until a delicate brown. Drain on unglazed paper. Fry turkey in oil until well browned. Add celery, onion and meat stock Cook until vegetables are tender. Mix cornstarch with soy bean sauce and add to turkey.

Raw Throat? Here's Quick Action!

Kill the cold germs that attack your throat and cause miserable colds At the first sign of "raw" throat, gargle with Zonite

Zonite is 9 3 times more active, by standard laboratory tests, than any other popular non-poisonous antiseptic. Kills all kinds of cold germs—at contact! And Zonite soothes your throat

Get Zonite at once. Gargle immediately—1 teaspoon Zonite to half glass water. Kill cold germs before they spread UP into sinuses or DOWN into bronchial tubes You'll feel relief after the first gargle with Zonite.

Don't Let "Morning-After" HEADACHE

Spoil Your Day!

Do you feel foggy, head throb, and nerves jittery? Take Capudine and map out of morning-after headache, whether from over-indulgence in eating or drinking. Because Capudine is a liquid it works fast. Note how quickly head clears, shaky nerves are calmed and relaxed, and pep returns. No narcotics. All drug stores.

Flowers Spell Romance to Her---Your Valentine

No Sonnet or Love Lyric Their Equal for Wife or Sweetheart.

By MRS. BERT SCHILLER McDONALD
(Central Press Flower Stylist)

THERE ISN'T a woman in the world, no matter how old or how young, who doesn't want to be remembered on St. Valentine's day. Although women may be emancipated, may have the vote and careers, they still have a primitive yearning for romance—and to be neglected on this day of "hearts and flowers" is to know bitter disappointment

So husbands and lovers, on St Valentine's day let romance reign But bear in mind, there's no sonnet, no love lyric that can equal a gift of lovely flowers when it comes to expressing true love and devotion.

Roses gardenias, orchids and violets are among Cupid's favorites Roses, especially deep red ones, express ardent love. Violets bring a message of tenderness and constancy. Gardenias are suggestive of charm and glamor Carnations have a way of saying "you are clever and efficient" while orchids whisper, "You're the queen of my heart" But no matter what flower you choose every woman in her own way, will find in them a thrilling Valentine message

If the object of your affection lives in a distant city—you can, even at the last minute, send flowers by wire They will reach her in a few hours and she'll be deeply impressed with your thoughtfulness and devotion.

If your Lady Fair loves to wear flowers, any one of a number of Valentine corsages will bring a thrill of delight There's a heart-shaped cluster of violets centered by one red, red rose. Two hearts entwined (made of wired red chenille) give an added romantic touch Or tiny Sweetheart roses may be arranged to form a heart, while sprays of lily of the valley add a lacy touch A pert bow of Alice blue will complete the effect Another charming bouquet is of regal cattleya orchids in shades of mauve and purple, tied with a rich purple ribbon Or send the very sophisticated cypripedium orchids of chartreuse yellow combined with their own foliage A Cupid pin will provide a Valentine touch Finally there's a heart-shaped cluster of red, red carnations edged with lacy ferns and finished with a tiny bow of gold ribbon.

Maybe she would like a heart-shaped box of candy with a corsage of gardenias, such as lovely Florence George is holding "Sweets to the sweet," sure enough.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

IN MRS. TICER'S parlance, "butter would not have melted in Miss Whitlock's mouth" as she made her placating reply to Mother Graham's query. And, cleverly, it left my doughty mother-in-law no possible loophole of complaint The nurse had been beautifully deferential where, I think, my mother-in-law had truculently expected an exhibition of "trained nurse authority." So it was with a slightly dazed expression upon her face that Mother Graham turned to me

"What do you think," Margaret?" she asked, and with a concealed chuckle, I realized that the query was simply a perfunctory courtesy to me, rather than any real wish for my opinion.

"If you approve," I said smiling, "if Miss Whitlock sets her professional seal upon the going, and if Mary wishes it so strongly, who am I to utter a dissenting opinion? But, seriously, I do approve, and, fortunately, having packed all Mary's things away when she came out here, I shall be able to save her any fuss or worry over the moving"

'Good'" my mother-in law said absently. Then she turned back to Mary.

"If you are sure you won't overfatigue yourself," she said, "and will promise to be careful of your strength, I see no reason why you should not go in this afternoon."

Mary Grateful.

"Oh! you darling Granzie'" Mary caroled extravagantly. "Thank you a million times' And you needn't be a bit afraid of my getting too tired. You know what a superlative packer Auntie Madge is She has my belongings all on a list. All I have to do, she says, is to check off those I wish to take with me. She'll attend to everything else"

"That is very nice," my mother-in-law said graciously. "You should be very grateful to your Aunt Margaret. And now I think you ought to rest a little. I will come in again later"

I saw my cue and acted upon it promptly, for I knew it would never do for me to remain with Mary while her grandmother voluntarily banished herself from her room.

'I second that motion, Mother," I said "Miss Whitlock, I shall be in my room whenever your patient is rested enough to go over her list of belongings."

"Oh! I'm—" Mary began protestingly, then, as she caught my warning glance, finished lamely, "so glad you all approve of my going today"

"That approval will be withdrawn, Mary," her grandmother said didactically, "unless you promise to rest every minute you can all day."

"Just watch me get under the covers!" Mary retorted, and even before her first movement to discard her pillows, Miss Whitlock was at her side, deftly taking away all the pillows save one and settling Mary in a comfortable reclining position.

"I'm fast asleep," Mary murmured, with closed eyes and a gamin grin curving her lips.

"The dear child'" Mother Graham said in a hushed voice when we were outside the door "She is so brave! I am so glad she can jest. And, Margaret, I shall not forget your kindness to her Now, if you do not need me for anything, I shall go to my room for a little."

Retire For Rest.

"There is nothing to do now," I returned, knowing her invariable after-breakfast custom of a glance at the morning paper, and a short "cat nap" before beginning her daily activities "I'm going to my own room for a little rest'

"You need it," she said solicitously. "You were up at all hours last night and this morning"

She turned to her room, and I to mine. I kicked off my shoes, replaced my gown with a kimono and fairly dived for my couch, for I was suddenly spent, experiencing the "let down" that is my portion after the completion of any arduous task, mental or physical

Purposely, I left my door ajar, for I knew Dicky was in the offing somewhere, and I did not wish even the sound of a knock to reach his mother's ears, somewhat deafened by age, but uncannily alert, nevertheless My couch faced the door and when he came along the corridor I beckoned him inside with an emphatic gesture for silence He tiptoed across the threshold and closed the door with infinite care before speaking Then he asked anxiously

"Well! How about it? Can you go to New York today with me?"

Buffing Will Add Luster

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty."

"FOR THE LAST six months, I have been using liquid polish on my fingernails. Previously, my nails had a lovely natural luster. My mother insisted, however, that the continued use of the liquid polish would destroy the natural gloss of my nails.

"I was rather dubious about her statement at the time. But my nails have now become dull and faded looking. Is it really the fault of the liquid polish?

"CAROLYN."

The fault probably lies in the fact that, due to the finished appearance that the liquid polish gives, you have discarded the practice of buffing your nails. The buffing of the nails should not be overlooked, as it is essential to both their health and beauty. Continued buffing will bring out the lovely luster of the nails, and will also stimulate the circulation.

In addition, you should massage your nails nightly. A bit of warmed olive oil massaged into the base of the nails will help to correct the dull, dry condition of which you write Also, buff your nails briskly before you apply the liquid polish It will provide a smoother and firmer surface for the application of the enamel, and will give your nails a lovely under-luster.

"I wish to reduce my weight, and am very much encouraged, because my sister followed the same reducing course and lost 32 pounds, all told.

"However, I'm wondering whether a recommended preliminary three-day liquid diet is very important, or whether I could omit it. Would you advise me, please?

"MARY."

That preliminary three-day liquid diet is indeed important, and although you can, if you wish, omit it, I would not advise you to do so. It is not the two or three-pound weight loss that usually results that is important The value of this dieting lies in the stomach shrinkage to normal that ensues, and the removal of a great deal of waste material from the body.

The alimentary canal becomes completely cleansed in preparation for the new diet system.

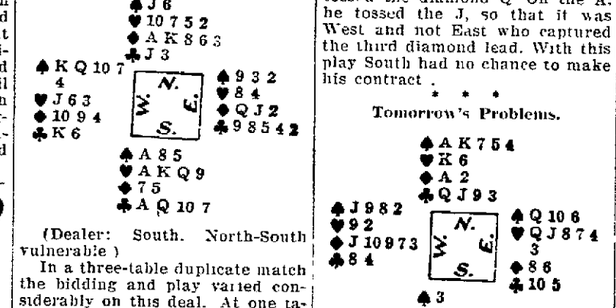
Try using boiled noodles as a topping—in place of pie crust for meat or vegetable pies. When they are browned the noodles will give a crusty, nicely-flavored covering.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

GET OUT OF THE WAY

WHEN YOUR partner has set up his suit against a No Trump contract, your job is usually to use every possible artifice to get him into the lead so he may run his remainders. When other suits are played by the declarer, you should toss on any high cards you possess which may thus leave your partner's lower ones in ranking position as entries.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable)

In a three-table duplicate match the bidding and play varied considerably on this deal. At one table the contract ended in 4-Hearts and at the other two it was played at 3-No Trumps

Against the No Trump contracts, the spade K was led and the suit continued until the third round, when South won with the A. The diamond 7 was then led and won in the dummy with the K.

At one table, East discarded the diamond 2 on this play, and when the A was cashed, played the J, but won the third round with the Q. He then returned a club, with the hope of getting West in to cash his remaining spades, but South refused the chance to finesse. The heart 10 furnished an entry for the remaining diamonds, so that he was sure of his nine tricks

At the other table, East decided to make every effort to get his partner in the lead, so when the diamond was led to the K, he tossed the diamond Q On the A, he tossed the J, so that it was West and not East who captured the third diamond lead. With this play South had no chance to make his contract.

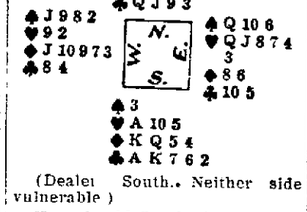
Tomorrow's Problems.



(Dealer South. Neither side vulnerable)

How should South play to make his contract of 7-No Trumps after the lead of the diamond J?

Today's Recipes.

LAMB EN CASSEROLE.—Two pounds lamb shoulder, flour for dredging, lard for browning, twelve small onions, two carrots, four potatoes, one cup string beans, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, two cups meat stock. Have meat cut in one-inch cubes. Dredge with flour and brown in hot lard Season with salt and pepper and place in a casserole Also pile in casserole whole small onions, sliced carrots, sliced potatoes and cooked green beans. Add four tablespoons flour to fat in pan in which meat was browned and stir until the flour is browned. Add two cups meat stock and let cook until thickened Season with Worcestershire sauce. Pour this over meat and vegetables. Cook in a moderate oven until vegetables are done, about forty minutes.

CRUNCHY SAUCES

Crush chocolate-covered molasses chips, butterscotch candy, glazed nuts, peanut brittle or any other hard candy and add them to pudding sauces just before serving.

THEATER

THE Sam Goldwyn picture, "Adventures of Marco Polo," starring Gary Cooper, will be one of the big ones of the year. It has been in production at United Artists for months and months . . . Joan Bennett will be seen in "I Met My Love Again," which is her first picture since her stage adventure in "Stage Door." . . . Madelene Carroll and Henry Fonda are working together in "The River Is Blue," a Walter Wanger production. . . . Death wiped the name of two old timers from the Hollywood slate recently, Myrtle Steadman and Robert McWade. In the early silent picture days, Miss Steadman was a star. . . . Twentieth Century-Fox will make "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and Tyrone Power will play the Irving Berlin role in this history of Tin Pan Alley

"Stage Door" at Ohio.

It is quite probable that the theater goer who sees "Stage Door" at the Ohio will not notice, until afterward, that there is little or no "heart interest" in this outstanding and memorable picture. There is no "romantic hero"; in fact there isn't any hero at all The only major male role is taken by Adolph Menjou who plays the theatrical producer. But no one misses a hero, for this gripping picture drama is such a potent mixture of side splitting wise cracks and heart clutching tragedy that it swings the spectator along with its rapid current of action, forgetful of the conventional rules of picture making. Ginger Rogers and Katharine Hepburn, both of whom do the best work of their careers, make even their critics bow in admiration, while a dozen other girls in the film will be remembered for their splendid work, including Andrea Leed, whose tragic Kay creates a flutter of handkerchiefs and eye-wiping.

No Picture Wednesday.

There will be no pictures shown at the Madison on Wednesday because of the stage presentation there Wednesday night, "You Can't Take It With You." The current bill, headed by "Man Proof" with Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone and Rosalind Russell, will run through today. It is a "problem" drama with two women in love with the same man, who in turns loves only himself. Walter Pidgeon plays the role of the self-centered husband, while Tone plays a light-hearted newspaper cartoonist. On Thursday the Madison will open with "Paradise For Three," with Florence Rice and Robert Young

Plays Dangerous Game.

Phyllis Brooks a newcomer in pictures, plays a dual role in "City Girl" opening at the Majestic today. She lives two lives in the space of a year and plays a dangerous game, with one sweetheart who is a big shot racket man, and another sweetheart in the prosecutor's office Ricardo Cortez plays the former and Robert Wilcox the latter role. Douglas Fowley, Chick Candler, Esther Muir and Adrienne Ames have leading supporting roles. On the same bill is a second showing of "A Star Is Born," the technicolor drama starring Fredric March and Janet Gaynor. Both March and Miss Gaynor are being considered for the Academy award for their work in this picture, a tragic commentary on Hollywood and its mills for grinding out stars.

Mary Turns Policewoman.

Mary Boland and Ernest Truex —the smallest grown-up male comedian on the American stage— are teamed in a comedy, "Mama Runs Wild," a Ritz attraction today, and running through Thursday Miss Boland makes life miserable for her pint sized husband when she is made honorary captain of the police force for aiding in the capture of bank bandits With her socially-minded friends, she attempts to run the town, and thereby complicates the lives of her family. Romance is carried by William Henry and Lynn Roberts. "High, Wide and Handsome," with Irene Dunne, Randolph Scott and Dorothy Lamour, brings to the screen a history of the discovery of oil in Pennsylvania which run parallel with an interesting romance.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Feb. 9.

Opportunities of a surprising nature are forecast from the very strong lunar aspects, with the possibility of some behind-the-scenes influence probably having force. However, hard work, steadfastness, practical plans and initiative should also have a constructive influence. It is a time for pushing old, new as well as distant affairs with excellent results, with travel or change assisting developments

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a very successful and generally progressive and prosperous year. Some change or travel seems necessary in promoting affairs Distant, old and new matters may thrive by the application of practical plans, diligence, fidelity as well as by the aid of a secret, subtle or undercover influence Insurance, a will or gifts may contribute to prosperity

A child born on this day may be enterprising, industrious, faithful and ambitious. A strain of subtlety or diplomacy in its nature may contribute to its success as should its kindly and generous impulses.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Better

Double-quick Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

No matter what you might spend for medicine, you couldn't get quicker, better relief from coughs that start from colds than this simple home mixture gives. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it beats anything you ever tried. It has a remarkable three-fold action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

KEARNS BACK WITH "NEXT HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION OF WORLD"

JACK KEARNS

By PAT ROBINSON
(INS Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—The fight manager who made $3,500,000 in ten years—and blew it all in half that time—is with us again.

The man, of course, is Jack Kearns, who piloted Jack Dempsey from a brake beam to a world's championship, and in doing so uncovered more ballyhoo than Barnum ever dreamed of.

Now he's back with "the next heavyweight champion of the world" in tow.

That's how he refers to young Jimmy Adamick of Detroit who, Jack vows, is a "two to one faster and harder hitter than Dempsey was at a similar stage of development."

"This lad," said Jack, thumbing toward the black haired giant across the table, "has scored 41 kayos in 48 starts, and that's better than Dempsey ever did. Right now he's ready for anybody, including Joe Louis or Max Schmeling."

Jack took note of the lifted eyebrows and thumped the table.

"Say, you fellows are just like Mike Jacobs. He laughed when I told him the same thing this morning but I pointed out to him that Tex Rickard also laughed 20 years ago when I told him I had a young fellow who was ready to take Jess Willard. I finally convinced Rickard and Dempsey convinced Willard.

"Dempsey and I couldn't have paid our way out of a one-armed lunch wagon before that fight but after it—oh, boy—we went to town in a big way. We made $7,000,000 in the next ten years and I cut him right down the middle. Why, one year alone we each paid income tax on $900,000! I was always a fast money maker and a fast spender. You know how it is—easy come, easy go.

"Ever hear the real story on how I made that first match with Willard? Well, a sports writer and myself are eating in a cheap restaurant and we've run up about four dollars worth and we've only got about two bucks between us. So I stall off the owner and head for the Biltmore when I find John McGraw of the Giants at the bar.

"I put a fast touch on John for 25 smackeroos and he introduces me to Rickard. I tell Tex I have a great young heavyweight and that he ought to use him.

"Tex is dubious so I finally get a few more under his belt and induce him to let me send a wire in his name to Willard, telling Willard that I had a soft touch for him in a young western heavy.

"Well, Willard falls for it and it's up to me to raise the dough because Tex says he's flat. By that time I have plenty of McGraw's liquor in me and I assure Tex I'll raise the money.

"Finally, I got a Memphis banker to back the show and what happened after that is history."

The man with the thinning grey hair and the shrewd eyes sat back and laughed. "From then on we were in the big money and how I used to love to make that Rickard moan every time I raised the ante on him for a fight.

"But you know how it goes—wine, women and song (with not too much singing)—the wheel, the ponies and the stock market. It comes fast and it goes faster.

"Oh, well, here I am, trying to make as much in a year as I paid Uncle Sam in taxes a few years ago. But I'm well and happy and only 52 and—I've got the next heavyweight champion in tow."

Hedges and Bowman school are still waging a hot fight for undisputed possession of first place in the Grade School league.

In the games at Senior high yesterday Hedges hammered out a 21 to 10 decision over Bushnell while Bowman walloped Brinkerhoff 24 to 11. It was triumph No. 13 for the winning clubs.

Woodland held a share of the spotlight yesterday at it held Western to a single charity toss to win, 13 to 1. Dent converted the free throw in the opening period. In the other tilt, Carpenter turned back West Fifth, 17 to 6. The Newman-Prospect affair was postponed.

Host to Willard

Tyger Team Seeks Ninth Win of Season on Home Hardwood Tonight.

THE court representatives of Mansfield high school swing into the next to the last week of their regular schedule tonight when they entertain Willard in the Tyger lair.

Victorious over the Railroaders in their first meeting this season, the Tygers are favored to make it two straight tonight.

Offered Tygers Trouble.

The Tygers will seek their ninth victory over the Willard boys, who, although losing regularly, offered the Mansfielders a lot of trouble in the first game. Mansfield has dropped six decisions.

Willard high is represented by a better team than the records show. One of the reasons why the Railroaders have failed to win more regularly is because they have been unable to hold their stride.

The Willard cagers gained early leads in the majority of their games, but lost all but two because of their inability to continue at the pace they set at the start.

The Willard lineup includes a number of time performers. One of the chief scoring threats is Jenny, who tallied 13 points in the Shelby defeat Saturday.

Coach Russ Murphy back from Denver, Col., where he visited an ill sister, said today that it is likely that Tommy Scott will be ready to return to action tonight.

Hurt In Practice.

An injured ankle suffered in practice kept Scott out of the lineup Friday night when the Tygers bowed to Akron West, 25 to 23, in one of the best court games staged in the city this winter.

Dave Shelley will probably start at a forward if Scott's injury does not respond to treatment Murphy said.

A preliminary game between the reserve teams of the two schools will open tonight's program at 7 o'clock.

Rolls 569 to Set Scoring Pace For Individuals.

Frank Harpster of the Ohio No. 1 team in the Mead Recreation alleys to his credit last night as he rounded out a 569 to lead the individual scoring in the Warner club league. Kibler of Ohio No. 2, which won team honors with a 1402 rolled a 526 and Wayne Williams of Majestic No. 1 came through with a 520. Wilbarger's 520 is the high of his brief bowling career.

COACHES AT SHELBY

The Richland County League quints will travel to Shelby to meet the undefeated Shelby Eagles team. The winning [illegible] of the contests was broken by the Loudonville faculty at Butler last week.

By Davis J. Walsh

International News Service Sports Editor.

Nathan Mann may be tough, but he doesn't figure at all on the night of Feb. 23 against Joe Louis.

TWO WEEKS AGO, it was only an innuendo. Today, it's an audible murmur. Next week, it may be a shout. Nathan Mann, of New Haven, they say is a good bet, at the odds, against Joe Louis for the world's heavyweight championship in New York, Feb. 23; they also say that he might even wind up giving Joseph the well and widely known "bob" on the features for ten horizontal seconds. I think they're mildly insane.

Nathan is tougher than a day on the rock pile, he can punch a bit and doubtless is kind to children and dumb animals. But right now he doesn't figure at all on the night of Feb. 23, or the Louis people wouldn't have taken him and Promoter Mike Jacobs wouldn't have picked him. This particular combination has cut itself a couple of million dollars in recent years by being pretty painstaking about just who it didn't pick for Louis.

It guessed wrong once on what was thought to be a sucker match with Schmeling and the effect was almost permanent, there being, of course, only the single-standard in a case like this. In fact, he must be a fairly reliable sucker, or they give him right back to the sidewalk.

STILL, it's significant to be told this morning, 15 days away from the tight, that the Louis-Mann sale has had an "advance" of $40,000, indicating several things including the probability that the sale will go to $150,000 by the afternoon of the tight.

It also means, I understand, that New England, notably Connecticut thinks that Mann is a hot tip to win and is buying accordingly. But Broadway is buying, too, in fact, two tickets to New England's one and, at the risk of violating a confidence I feel free to announce that nowadays a total of $150,000 either thinks it has something or it wouldn't go to see Columbus discover America.

The $40,000 advance, for instance, is well ahead of the Schmeling-Harry Thomas sale in December; the carnival of champions, which apparently blundered by not having three rings or maybe three fights in one ring or no fights in three rings or something, the Braddock-Farr sale last month and, as I recall, even the Louis-Farr outdoor title fight last September. This doesn't exactly fit in with the Nathan Mann who has been blustering through 10 rounds with Arturo Godoy and others, but maybe Mann isn't the guy they're really thinking about.

MAYBE they think Louis, having become accustomed to a life of ease and refinement, has forgotten about being a prize fighter any more and therefore, maye be taken by the first tough tomale who happens along. They have been babbling about that ever since the Farr fight and one of these fine evenings it must come true.

But it doesn't figure to be a February evening and at an indoor club and against a party by the name of Nathan Mann. It's my notion, in fact, that when Louis is ready for the naphtha, the laundry bill will be better than $1,000,000.

PURDUE STALLS, WINS

Attempts Few Shots in Second Half As It Gains Big 10 Tie.

CHICAGO—Purdue rode into a tie with Northwestern for first place in the Big Ten conference race last night by defeating Illinois 23 to 13. Only ten shots were taken by the two teams in the last half as Purdue, leading 20 to 11, held the ball 14½ minutes at the center line.

When the Illini finally decided to go after the ball, they had time to score only one basket while Purdue counted three points. Jewel Young, Boilermaker forward, topped the individual scorers with seven points.

SERVES WITHOUT CHARGE

Braddock to Referee Cleveland Title Bout for Charity.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Former Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock will referee without charge the middleweight title fight here Feb. 19 between Champion Freddie Steele of Tacoma, Wash., and Carmen Barth of Cleveland, Matchmaker Joe Lewis announced today.

The scheduled 15-rounder is to be staged in public hall as a benefit for Monsignor Joseph F. Smith's St. Anthony bread and soup kitchen fund.

Give Toledo university's basketeers something to shoot at and you've got a team that sparkles. They proved it again last night when they turned back a smooth George Washington university quintet from the nation's capital by a 56 to 43 count.

Charley, Chuckovits, the Rockets' sharp-shooter, pierced the invaders' defense to bag 28 paints. Toledo held a 35 to 22 half-time lead.

Loop Leaders Face Trouble

Methodists, Lutherans Engage Contenders.

Leaders in the Class A Church league face tough assignments Wednesday night when play is resumed at the Y. M. C. A.

First M. E., which holds a one-game lead over First Lutherans, meets Episcopal in the 8:30 game. Episcopal is tied with Central M. E. and Temple Emanuel for fourth place.

The Lutherans' opponent at 7 o'clock will be Mayflower, which is in third place a game and a half behind.

Park Avenue Baptist meets St Paul's. Central M. E. faces St John's and Temple Emanuel tackles United Presbyterian in the other games.

Topples 678 Pins

Charles Altman Registers Game of 275 as He Paces Club League.

LAST night was Charles Altman's man's night in the Club handicap league matches at the Meder alleys.

Rolling with the Baku Grotto, Altman spanked out games of 202, 201 and 275 for a 678 total, which won individual scoring honors hands down.

Altman led the Grotto to a 2761 total, one of the best of the night, and a clean sweep over the Mansfield Savings bank.

The best team total was a 2844, which was again accumulated by the American Legion. The string, which included a middle game of 1019, was good for a pair of victories over the Liederkranz club.

Six hundred totals were shot by Daugherty of the Eagles, 622, and Mertz of the Gas Meters, 614.

OFFERED CHANCE TO ADD TO CITY 'A' LEAGUE LEAD

Yuncker Sports Meet Ling Canzols In First Game on Wednesday's Bill at M. H. S.

AN OPPORTUNITY to strengthen its grip on first place in the City Class A basketball league race will be offered the undefeated Yuncker Sports Wednesday night on the weekly carnival at Senior high school.

Idle last week while the Westinghouse Electrics cut their advantage to a half-game, the Sportsmen can take a game lead by turning back the Ira D. Ling Canzols in the opening tilt at 7:30.

In the feature attraction at 8:30 the Elks club tackles the Mack Pure Oils. The Oilmen will be seeking their second league victory.

A victory Wednesday would place the Yuncker outfit in an excellent spot to annex the second round championship which ends next week when it faces the Westies.

The Canzols, although strengthened by the addition of new playing blood, have been unable to register a victory this round and prospects Wednesday are remote. In the first meeting between the two aggregations the Sports emerged with a one-sided, 51 to 13, decision.

The Pure Oils, fresh from a thrilling overtime triumph over the Canzols last week, will be out to upset the dope again Wednesday against the Elks. The only club to trip the Elks outfit so far this season was the leaders, and the Oils chances of duplicating the feat is not likely.

A victory for the Elks would place the team in a tie for second place with the idle Westies, with a record of two wins against a single setback. The Elkmen beat the Electrics last week, and if they are able to click with the same precision Wednesday they are not likely to encounter much trouble from the Oils.

Rolls 611 Total to Annex Honors In Matches.

Blasting out a 611 total, L. Adams of the Frame team set the individual scoring pace in the Shelby Cycle league at the Meder alleys last night. The Frame team rolled a 2555 to lead the five-man scoring.

FRANCE SPURS YIELD OF FOOD FROM COLONIES

Greatest Progress Under New Policy Shown by Possessions In Caribbean.

PARIS — (U.P.) — As part of France's drive to make colonial production suffice for all national needs, the island of Guadelupe and the colony of French Guinea now produce sufficient bananas to fill home needs, it was revealed by an official government commission returning from the Antilles.

Producers in the American colonies have drawn up a plan to increase grapefruit and pineapple production to fill the national needs as well.

The report stressed the great progress made since the formation of a producers co-operative for these two colonies, which pooled interests and capital. Five years ago, when the co-operative was first formed, only 3 per cent of French banana consumption was filled by French colonial plantations, the remaining requirements being largely filled from Central America. Today, importation from non-French plantations has ceased completely.

To Use Own Ships.

At a recent meeting of the cooperative, attended by Gratien Candace, Guadelupe deputy to the chamber on an official government mission, it was agreed that the French Compagnie Generale Transatlantique (French Line) should regulate its freight calls to the island, thus eliminating freighting in foreign vessels. A government loan will be made to provide proper storage facilities on the island, and credits extended to planters desiring to cultivate new land for other tropical products required in France.

Development of the Caribbean colonies is only a small part of the French plan to develop progressively colonies to provide home requirements. Already Indo-China has largely fulfilled France's rice requirements, Algeria and Morocco much of the citrus fruit needs. Other African colonies are being studied with a view of swiftly developing food and mineral production to meet much of the mother-country's requirements.

Britain Studies 'Tank Cars' For Huge Seaplanes

LONDON—Great Britain, making ready to inaugurate trans-Atlantic air transport service this summer, is considering the fueling of its big machines in the air with "flying tank cars."

Shortly after the takeoff, the winged tankers would pull alongside and pour additional gasoline into the over-ocean craft to insure it sufficient fuel for the long haul between Foynes, Ireland, and Botwood, Newfoundland.

Once aloft, flying boats can carry more weight then they can drag off the water. That is due to the glue-like hold which water exerts on the hull. Fueling in the air would permit heavier loads of passengers and mail.

Britain's flying tanker project, to which three years of study have been devoted, may be made necessary by the lack of long-range flying boats such as those being built for American trans-Atlantic work. Her larger boats are in the making but will not be ready for 1938 operations.

U. S. INCOME UP 5.5 PER CENT

$67,534,000,000 Volume For 1937 Still 15 Per Cent Under 1929 Figures.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— National income in 1937 totaled $67,534,000,000, an increase of 5.5 per cent over the $63,984,000,000 reported for 1936, but still 15 per cent below the peak of $79,101,000,000 of 1929. The National Industrial Conference Board has reported.

Since the cost of living last year was 4.4 per cent higher than in 1936, the increase in income was not as great in terms of goods and services purchasable as in dollars.

Allowance must be made in the 1936 figure for the distribution by the government of more than $1,800,000,000 in payment of the soldiers' bonus as compared with less than $20,000,000 in 1937, the board said.

Producing industries and government services accounted for some $61,325,000,000 of the 1937 national income. The remaining 10 per cent of the total was accounted for by such items as net rent and interest on owned homes, pensions, direct and work relief, soldiers' bonus, and government payments to farmers.

NEWS ADS GIVE BEST RESULTS

That's Claim of Head of Firm Evaluating Advertising.

NEW YORK — (AP) — W. S. Townsend, of Townsend and Townsend, Inc., has said newspaper advertising is the greatest single selling instrument at the disposal of retail merchandising.

Addressing the sales promotion session of the National Retail Dry Goods association's annual convention, Townsend, who described his firm work's as "advertising evaluating," criticized advertisers, however, for failure to obtain the full benefit of space they use.

"The trouble with much of the advertising we see today is that it is written on the assumption that the reader already wants the merchandise adverised," he said. "The first job of an advertiser is to make the consumer want his product."

FIND EVIDENCE OF EARLY MAN

Scientists Find Arrow Tip 14,000 Years Old in Southwest.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—A tiny arrow point found next to a vertabrae of a species of bison which lived in the southwest 14,000 years ago has established the earliest known American on the geologic calendar.

Archaeologists under Dr. Edgar B. Howard of the University of Pennsylvania, it was announced, discovered that the earliest American — the Folsom man — was a contemporary of the bison on an expedition to Clovis, N. M., last summer. A report on the findings of the group is incomplete.

CHOIR MASTER SENT TO PRISON

BOSTON—(AP)—Federal Judge George C. Sweeney has sentenced Herbert L. Badger, jr., 25-year-old Walpole Sunday school teacher and choir master, to three years in a federal penitentiary after a jury convicted him of transporting a 14-year-old Westwood girl to Jacksonville, Fla., for immoral purposes.

The girl, Elizabeth Bayley, testified she met Badger while she was a member of the choir of which he was mater. She told of keeping trysts with him after rehearsals and later meeting him at a church conference at Northfield. Unsuccessful in efforts to persuade him to return to his family as the conference neared an end, she testified, she agreed to accompany him. She said they were intimate for the first time after they parked their automobile outside a Jacksonville airport.

Denying the girl's charges, Badger testified he asked her to return home after they had traveled as far as New Haven, Conn.

STEELS LEAD COMEBACK IN STOCK MARKET

Spurred by Expectations of Amicable Wage Agreement at Conference.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stocks took a turn on the recovery track in today's market.

While dealings were almost as sluggish as in yesterday's dragging proceedings, leaders displayed gains running to 2 points near the second hour.

Steels led the comeback, with Motors, Aircrafts, Coppers, Mail Orders and specialties in demand.

Benefitting steels were expectations an amicable wage agreement would be reached at the present conference between representatives of U. S. Steel and the unions. Bonds and commodities were mixed.

Market analysts saw a hopeful sign in the Dun & Bradstreet figures disclosing business failures for the country as a whole, during the week ended Feb. 3, dropped to 256 from 321 in the preceding week.

Partial reports on the trend of January building permits also were on the cheerful side.

On the other hand, factory sales of passenger cars and trucks in January fell more than 120,000 units under the December aggregate and were sharply below the total for January last year.

FASCIST TROOPS IN NEW GAINS

5, Government Divisions Wiped Out, Insurgent Reports Say.

HENDAYE, France—(INS)—A smashing insurgent victory—in wihch five complete government divisions were wiped out—was claimed today in rebel dispatches from Saragossa, which reported vicious fighting in the Altambra Valley north of Teruel.

The reports said the insurgents captured 230 square miles of territory, occupied 29 villages and 145 fortified positions and freed the Teruel-Saragossa highway from danger of government attacks. The rebels also captured all war materials of three loyalist army corps.

HITS 'BOMBERS'

Cleveland Considers Stiff Penalty For Stench Throwers.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — City council today considered an ordinance providing heavy penalties for persons throwing stench bombs or possessing materials to make them.

The ordinance provides a $500 fine or a maximum sentence of one year, or both, for a first offense. Subsequent offenses would be subject to a maximum fine of $2,000 and three years.

FLOODS ROLL UP HEAVY DAMAGE

Scores of families were rescued in rowboats in southern Wisconsin as small streams suddenly spilled over their banks under the downpour of rain.

Michigan, however, was the hardest hit in the central states section as 600 persons fled their homes. The quick thaw of snow from two recent blizzards created widespread flood condition. An ice jam backed up water along the Clinton river driving nearly 200 from their homes at Mt. Clemens, and Vassar.

The river Rouge went on a rampage near Detroit and made fifty other homes untenable. Some 200 miles of highway were under water in central parts of the state.

HULL DENIES FOREIGN PACTS

Answers 'No' to Senate Queries on Defense Program, Rumors of Naval Alliances.

cutive day on the proposed $800,000,000 naval expansion program, told the house naval committee the navy should disregard lighter-than-air craft at this time because no other navy is developing them and other types of equipment are more urgently needed.

Denies "Pressure."

Johnson said Americans "should be informed if anything is in existence that will lead or tend to lead this nation into war."

He denied the resolution was offered for any affect it might have on consideration of the pending naval appropriations bill, which he said he would support.

Senator Bone (D-Wash) declared the senate should receive a "general pronouncement" of foreign policy, but added he was "not in favor of calling for any blueprints on the state department's plans."

La Follette expressed the belief that the state department's request to Japan for informaion on its naval program was a "build up" for the $800,000,000 naval expansion bill now before congress. Nye took a similar view, predicting that a formal refusal by Japan to disclose its construction projects would boster the move to increase American armaments.

(Although reports from Tokyo indicated the state department's request would not be answered officially, a foreign office spokesman declared that Japan had no plan for building 43,000-ton battleships.)

DIES AT AGE 53

ASKS RENEWAL OF 2 CONTRACTS WITH HOSPITAL

Styert to Submit Ordinances to Council; One Provides Care For Indigents.

City council at its next meeting will have before it a request from Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert authorizing him to enter into a renewal of two different contracts with the General hospital that expired Dec. 31.

One provides for laboratory work to be rendered the health department and the other for care of indigent cases

Water, Milk Analysis.

The contract for laboratory services calls for the payment of $115 a month by the city for regular milk analysis as ordered by the health commissioner and for weekly analysis of the city's water. In the event of emergencies the tests are to be made as often as deemed necessary by the health commissioner

Indigent care for which the city pays $4.25 daily per patient, includes all expenses for operations, room service, anesthetic, medical supplies, nursing and x-rays, according to provisions set forth in the contract

The contract points out the city will not be liable for any more than 10 days of confinement in the hospital in any one case unless authorized by the service director.

The contract points out the city winn not be liable for any more than 10 days of confinement in the hospital in any one case unless authorized by the service director.

City council in the annual appropriation bill set aside $14,000 for the purpose of hospital care for indigents, which is to include ambulance service and burials During the past year the city spent $10,800 for hospital care alone for indigents and more than $3,000 for ambulance service and funerals.

JOB PERMANENT

Volka Retained as Head of Soldiers', Sailors' Home.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—State Welfare Director Margaret Allman has appointed Col. John A. Volka as permanent commander of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' home at Sandusky, a position he has held under a provisional civil service nomination since Perry L Null, former institution head, was removed.

Col. Volka was first among a field of 14 candidates who took recent civil service examinations for the position.

Mrs. Allman said she had received a certification of the civil service eligible list and would notify the commission later today of her selection of Col. Volka.

In commenting upon the appointment, the welfare director said:

"We are all pleased with his administration of the home."

ABANDON ROAD ON COUNTY LINE

Richland, Ashland Commissioners Take Action at Joint Meeting.

The abandonment of a half-mile section of road No. 14 on the Richland-Ashland county line had been ordered today following a joint meeting of the board of commissioners of both counties at the courthouse here.

The road, which extends from Mifflin townships, Richland county, into Ashland county, is one of a number ordered vacated by commissioners in the past month

Action for abandonment of the roads was taken, commissioners said, because most of the routes have been in disuse or are in the Muskingum Conservancy district and will be flooded on completion of dams in the conservancy area

ENDS TONIGHT

Institute Season In County Comes to Close at Shiloh.

With the final session of the Shiloh farmers' institute scheduled for tonight in the school building, the institute season in Richland county will close, according to County Agent George B Ganyard.

The meetings at Shiloh, which opened yesterday, featured talks by Mrs. Della Moats of Sherwood, O., and C. R. Wagner of Arlington. The highlight of tonight's concluding session will be a play entitled "An Arizona Cowboy" presented by a cast of players from the Shiloh and Bloomingrove township communities.

While complete attendance figures for the eight institutes already held in the county this year have not been compiled, Ganyard said most of the sessions attracted larger audiences than last year.

Students From City and Vicinity Active at O. S. U.

TREAT A COLD AS IF YOU MEAN IT!

Don't Fool Around with Half-way Measures!

One of the worst things you can do is "kid around" with a cold.

The so-called "common cold" causes more serious sickness and more enforced absence from work than anything else.

It's a mistake to treat a cold lightly. A cold calls for a cold treatment and not a "cure-all." A cold calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

Your Stand-by!

What you should take for a cold are Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets)!

First of all, Bromo Quinine tablets are a real cold medicine, made expressly for the treatment of colds.

Secondly, they are internal medication.

They do four things:

First, Bromo Quinine tablets open the bowels.

Second, they check the infection in the system

Third, they relieve the headache and fever

Fourth they tone the system and help fortify against further attack

Bromo Quinine tablets may be taken with confidence

The fact that they have been on the market for over 40 years and that they are the largest-selling cold tablet in the world, assures you of their reliability.

Your Best Bet!

Bromo Quinine tablets come in 35c and 60c sizes. The 60c size is the better "buy" It gives you almost 20 per cent more for your money.

Remember, as soon as a cold makes its appearance, turn to Bromo Quinine tablets!

Ask for—and demand—Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets)! No reliable druggist will offer you a substitute.

CAVE-IN CLOSES STREET, THAWS DAMAGE OTHERS

Street Department Starts on Repairs; Many Complain of Impassable Conditions.

With one street closed because of a cave-in and numerous complaints of impassable conditions on other unpaved city thoroughfares being registered with city officials—street department employes were at work today repairing damage caused by recent thaws.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert announced that Lawnview avenue had been temporarily closed from Maple street to Highland avenue because of a cave-in on the street. He said that a sewer had been laid in the street early last fall and that frost in the ground recently gave way and left a three-foot ditch in the street

Fill Ditch With Slag.

Donnell Orweiler, street superintendent, said that workmen would make an inspection of the sewer before filling the ditch with slag.

He added there were several other streets where cinders and slag would be applied as soon as the work was completed on Lawnview avenue. Chief among these was Ausdale avenue, where the Mansfield Rapid Transit company had to re-route its coaches because of impassable conditions.

Orewiler said the street department had been engaged in putting down planking in the last week where persons had complained that they could not get into their driveways from the streets

The "open winter" was blamed for the damage to unpaved streets Orewiler pointed out that it might do considerable damage to paved streets as well.

RUBBER MAKING IN U. S. ON RISE

Research Chemists Putting America In Lead In Race For Synthetic Material.

NEW YORK — (UP) — Research chemists in the United States are credited with putting this country in the lead in an international race for development of synthetic rubber-like materials

Dr. H. L. Trumbull, writing in the Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering magazine, declared the competition among the world's major powers is heightened by the fact that every great industrial nation depends for its supplies of raw rubber on sources thousands of miles away.

While chemists in this country have been developing synthetic substances, scientists in other nations have been engaged in a scramble to produce similar materials, Dr Trumbull said. He declared that only in Germany and Russia have there been any achievements which compare with those in the United States.

"German chemists have produced a material known as 'Buna rubber' and this substance has for months been specified in place of natural rubber in goods purchased by the German government," Dr Trumbull said.

"Buna has been made available in several grades, each of which in some respects is said to excel natural rubber The imposition of an import duty of 1¼ marks per kilo on crude rubber is said to be for the purpose of raising money for additional factories for synthetic rubber production in Germany, which the German government hopes within the year may attain a volume of 27,000 tons.

WINS JUDGMENT AGAINST UNION

Ohioan Gets $8,000 In Suit Following Assault.

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)— A verdict for $8,000 has been awarded John J. McCann by a jury in Judge Erskine Maiden's court, in McCann's suit for $15,000 damages against the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, Local 476, because of an alleged assault by the brotherhood's business agent

McCann contended that Russell Bowen, then business agent of the union and now president of the building trade council, struck him, fracturing his jaw, June 11, 1936, during a dispute over union affairs McCann sued the union on the contention that Bowen was acting within the scope of his employment.

SCHOOLS SEND OUT PLEA FOR OLD MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS—GOT ANY?

Has anyone in Mansfield got any old musical instruments to give away? Any violins, trumpets, trombones, saxaphones, clarinets, flutes—any instrument at all, even drums?

It may sound like an odd request but it's a perfectly reasonable one. The Mansfield school system needs them, for its course in instrumental music instruction, which is in charge of S K. Jorgenson.

There are now about 300 pupils in the school system taking the instrumental course, but the number would be much larger, Jorgenson says, if the instruments were available. All pupils now taking instructions have furnished their own instruments, but many others who'd like to learn to play, can't afford to buy instruments.

Hence the request for forgotten or discarded musical instruments. Jorgenson will arrange to have such instruments called for, he says, if persons having them will telephone the Senior high school and leave their names and addresses.

The fact that such instruments may need repairs needn't bother any one who wants the schools to have them, because the school will take care of repairs. They'll remain the property of the school, too, and thus will be used to teach new youngsters to play as the years go on.

The instrumental music instruction course is just getting started in the schools, Jorgenson explained. Organized last year by Miss Frances Armstrong, now in Yonkers, N. Y., Jorgenson now has charge of classes in all grade schools, though he does not teach members of the high school band.

An effort is now being made to organize orchestras in all grade schools, and if his appeal for discarded instruments brings results, that movement will be speeded up considerably.

So if you've got any instruments that you don't want, call the Senior high school, and they'll be put to good use.

LISTS BOOKS FOR LECTURE SERIES

Library Compiles Volumes Dealing With Institute Topics.

The Mansfield Public library today compiled a list of collateral reading for the current series of lectures on the international relations which is being conducted every Monday night at Senior high school auditorium under the sponsorship of the Rotary and University clubs.

The books, dealing with the international situation, will be displayed each week at the high school auditorium.

Those dealing with last night's lecture by Ethan Colton are: "Guide to Modern Politics," by Cole; "Europe War or Peace?", Duranty; "Plot and Counterplot In Europe," Fodor; "Zero Hour," Freund; "Inside Europe," Gunther; "History of National Socialism," Heiden; "I Knew Hitler," Ludecke; "Assignment In Utopia," Lyons; "Viewed Without Alarm; Europe Today," Millis; "Journalist's Wife," Mowrer; "Dangerous Sea; the Mediterranean and Its Future," Slocombe; "Escape to the Present," Steel; "I Change Worlds," Strong, and "What Next In Europe?" by Willert.

'ONLY' CHILD NOT SPOILED

That's What Survey Tells Illinois Researcher.

CHICAGO— (AP) —The "only" child of a family is no more pampered or spoiled than children of large families, says Dr. William Paul Carter of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Carter bases his conclusions on statistics obtained from more than 4,000 "only child" students in 50 colleges and universities in 29 states.

He says his findings disprove the theory that the only child gets more indulgence, attention, love and protection than youngsters having brother or sisters.

MAKES $84,000 STATE FINDING

Examiner Holds Ex-Treasurer Failed to Collect Special Property Levies.

COLUMBUS—Luther Thomas, former Jackson county treasurer, owes the county nearly $84,000 because he failed to comply with the tax collection laws, according to a report filed with State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson by State Examiner W. D. Noble.

The report made two findings for recovery against Thomas, one for $636 and another for $77,504 for failure to collect special assessments, and for removing special assessments on real estate tax receipts.

The larger finding was based on the former treasurer's alleged failure to place assessment items on the receipts written from the 1934 duplicate and for omitting all special assessments on the 1935 duplicate.

"We feel that such gross neglect of duty on the part of the county treasurer could only be explained by assuming that the official was ignorant of some of the important duties imposed upon him by law," the report said.

The report criticized Thomas for having ignored the law requiring collection of penalties on delinquent taxes, and said "This neglect has resulted in material loss to the county.

13 KILLED IN SOVIET CRASH

Russia's Biggest Dirigible Plunges Into Mountain In Arctic Test Flight.

the difficulty of rescuing the four men under Dr. Ivan Papinin who last may were set down at the North Pole by airplane. They had established their base on the ice. In the months since they had drifted on a zig-zag course southward until today they were about 60 miles off the east coast of Greenland.

The enormous floe on which the party established its camp had become smaller. In recent days it had broken up alarmingly. Some stores were lost Great fissures or leads appeared between floes and then a strong wind drove the ice floes together again in a churning, grinding mass

When the dirigible started out, two icebreakers had already started to the rescue and a third was about to go. Each ship had airplanes. But the ice was in such condition that the icebreakers could not approach the scientists and an airplane landing was almost impossible Hence the dirigible had been the chief hope of early rescue.

The scientists were between Greenland and little Jan Mayen island midway between Greenland and Norway The icebreaker Murmanetz was approaching Jan Mayen island from the east and the icebreaker Taimir was off the northwest coast of Norway

The icebreaker Murman was ready to leave Murmansk with six months' food and two airplanes.

It was understood that the government had two airplanes ready to leave Russian soil for the ice floe if conditions gave any hope of effecting an airplane rescue

The scientists were still in radio communication and their reports indicated that for the present their floe was almost stationary There was some belief that the scientists, if the ice jam was maintained might make their way over the ice floes to the Greenland coast by sled

RECEIPTS DROP

Tax Payments For First Week Only Half of Last Year's.

The collection of first-half real estate and special assessment taxes in Richland county today moved into the second week with receipts far below collections for the opening week last year, according to John E. Kolb, county treasurer.

Collections for the week ending yesterday totaled $38,473 as against $65,893 in a similar period last year, the treasurer's books showed.

Total collections to date, however, including receipts before books officially opened, are $82,650, only $9,000 less than the combined figures for last year. Pre-collection payments for 1938 amounted to $45,000, while last year only $25,900 had been received before the books opened. Kolb said.

Taxes are payable until March 20 without penalty.

HOME DAMAGED

ASHLAND — Fire believed to have started from defective wiring partially destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Roseborough here Sunday night.

Whipped by heavy winds, the fire burned until early Sunday morning, with Ashland firemen waging a fight to prevent the flames from spreading to other structures nearby.

W. V. FRAZEE, 75, TAKEN BY DEATH

Retired Farmer Had Been Ill In Bucyrus Home for Year.

BUCYRUS—Walker V. Frazee, 75, a retired farmer and former implement dealer of Bucyrus, died at his home, 1313 North Sandusky avenue, today after an illness of a year.

Surviving are his wife, Martha; a son, Paul; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Peterman and Mary of Nevada, O., and four grandchildren. He was a member of the United Brethren church. Services will be held at the Munz funeral home Thursday, with burial in Oakwood cemetery.

CLOSE DOORS TO LABOR PEACE

states the CIO has issued what it terms charters to state units similar to the A. F. of L.'s state federations of labor.

Both sides will throw considerable money into the organization drives ahead, the A. F. of L using a special assessment fund which it has imposed upon members throughout the past eight months, and the CIO using both its own money and whatever amount John L. Lewis chooses to have his mine workers provide additionally as a loan.

Generally speaking, it has been easier for the CIO to get funds—a large part of them borrowed—than the A. F. of L The latter's structure is loosely organized, and its hold over its individual autonomous unions is not so gripping as the structure of the CIO. Regular A. F. of L dues are considerably lower than those for the CIO, too.

As the new year started, the mine workers alone had a two and a half million dollar war chest, and their delegates authorized Lewis to dip into it as deeply as he pleased to finance the CIO.

CITY DEMANDS HIKE IN RATES

SHELBY — Contracts to provide fire protection for Jackson and Sharon townships will not be renewed by the city unless a more satisfactory arrangement can be reached, it was decided by city council in session last night The present contract expires July 1.

It will be necessary for the city to charge a higher rate to provide protection under a new contract, councilmen said, as the purchase of additional equipment would be necessary. The department is not now equipped to give efficient rural protection, Fire Chief Eugene Schull told council.

Ordinances to issue bonds totaling $7,800 for curb improvements on Jennings court and West Park drive were passed at the meeting.

HOLDS DANGER OF WAR SLIGHT

Colton Tells 800 at Opening of Institute Europeans Don't Want Another One.

giving the anger of minor powers a chance to cool and warding off trouble that might have spread to larger nations."

Asserting that Germany probably is most likely of any of the five major powers to start trouble in Europe, Colton pointed out that Hitler is not eager to antagonize the British with the large but "green" army he has built.

"Hitler always considered the former kaiser a blunderer," Colton said, "because the ex-German leader brought the British wrath down on Germany and resulted in a blockade that fenced in the Germans during the World war."

Says Mussolini Cautious.

"Musolini will be dangerous if he gets mad," Colton said, "but he's too cautious to go to war unless he is mad."

Although the British and French have had minor differences for generations and resembles a quarrelling husband and wife who stay together for their own good, neither wants war and will do everything possible to preserve peace, he declared.

"France has everything to lose and nothing to gain by a war, while every one will have to guess as to what Britain might do under pressure," Colton said.

Favoring the administration's "Good neighbor" policy, Colton said the best way for the United States to stay out of war is to help other countries to stay out.

"We can't sit by and watch some bully get a war started and then expect to stay out of it for any length of time," he continued..

"We must remain friendly with the other countries of the world and try to maintain a fair balance of power in armaments to preserve peace," he asserted.

Colton has spent the past 20 years traveling throughout the world as a student of international affairs. He has written extensively, his last two books—"The X Y Z of Communism" and "Four Patterns of Revolution"—receiving wide circulation.

For a half hour following his lecture, Colton answered questions from the audience pertaining to the European picture.

Colton was introduced by W. L. Miller, president of the Rotary club, co-sponsor of the lecture series. The meeting opened by Atty. Henry Huston, representing the University club

The institute, arranged by a committee headed by H. A. Bruce of the University club, will bring Alfred Edwards, member of the British Parliament, to Mansfield as the speaker next Monday night in the high school auditorium. He will talk on "Organizing for World Peace."

PURCHASE SERUM

ASHLAND — County commissioners here bought a supply of rabies serum to be used during the year, with the understanding that the firm which sold it will exchange the supply from time to time to keep it fresh, it was announced.

Treatments under the new provisions would cost about $7 each, it was said.

Rowboat Rescue of Family as Rivers Rise

Rowboats are used to rescue families trapped by rising flood waters in some parts of Michigan and Wisconsin where heavy rains and melting snows sent rivers on a rampage. This family was taken from their home along the Ann Arbor trail, near Detroit, after the River Rouge overflowed its banks.

ATTEND PARLEY

Mansfield Sends Delegation to Welfare Meeting.

Three representatives of the Richland county welfare department and juvenile court were in Columbus today for sessions of the mid-winter conference of the Ohio welfare department.

Attending from Mansfield were Miss Mildred Armstrong, county welfare director; Mrs. Katherine McMichael, visitor for the welfare department, and Miss Esther Barnett, probation officer in the county juvenile court. They will return here tonight at the close of the two-day conference.

The speaker at last night's session of the convention was David C. Adie, New York state commissioner of public welfare, who listed the following problems to be solved by modern society.

Development of schools to help the relationship between adults and children; new forms of employment for those who have no place in present industry; stabilization of the economic order; cessation of the talk about "Institutions against foster homes" and the realization that both are necessary.

Nicolas of Greece, Father of Duchess Of Kent, Stricken

ATHENS—(AP)—Prince Nicolas, 66, father of the Duchess of Kent of England, died today after a month's illness following hardening of the arteries and kidney trouble.

Nicolas was the youngest brother of the late King Constantine and an uncle of the present King George II.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent were en route to Athens from Munich at the time of his death. King George of Greece was present.

At the time of the Greek royalist coup in 1935, one Paris group of monarchist exiles wanted Nicolas for king, but he deferred to George's restoration.

He was married to Helen, daughter of the Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia, to whom were born three daughters, Marina, who married the Duke of Kent in November, 1934; Olga, married to Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia, and Elizabeth, wife of Count Toerring.

A writer and painter, Prince Nicolas held exhibitions of his paintings in London and Paris and created a literary stir in 1928 with publication of his "Political Memoirs" in which he defended King Constantine from charges of pro-Germanism.

Common Sense About Constipation

If you knew that your constipation was caused by something left out of your food, wouldn't it be just common sense to put that something back?

Your trouble may be caused by nothing more than this. For the most common kind of constipation is due to lack of "bulk" in the bowels—you need some food that passes on through the stomach without being digested. Kellogg's All-Bran supplies this. It gives the bowels the bulky mass they need to work properly. And All-Bran also gives them the intestinal-tonic, vitamin B1, which helps restore their tone.

Eat All-Bran as a cereal or baked in muffins. But however you eat it, be sure you get some every day. And drink plenty of water. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

TAPPAN SALES PARLEY TO OPEN

Company's Representatives to Meet Tomorrow, View New Range Models.

The annual meeting of sales representatives of the Tappan Stove company will be held in Mansfield tomorrow, bringing company representatives from all over the country.

C. V. McConnell, sales manager, who will be in charge of the meeting, will open the morning session at 9:30 at the Leland hotel. He will present the complete line of 1938 ranges, which will be arranged in the ballroom.

Others who will speak briefly at the morning session are Paul R. Tappan, president of the company; Alan P. Tappan, vice president; K. B. Miller, assistant sales manager; and P. I. Berno of the sales department.

The company will be host at a luncheon at the hotel, after which Ray Hammer, sales promotion manager, will talk on the 1938 merchandising program.

Tomorrow afternoon's program will include talks by district representatives, including W. H. Tappan of Los Angeles, R. B. Wheeler, San Francisco; A. B. Ritzenthaler, New York City; E. T. Pendergast, Cleveland; G. D. Boyle of Cincinnati; and S. C. Patno of the Roger Williams company of Cleveland.

SUPREME COURT HEARS HOLDING COMPANY PLEA

Attack Challenging Act Held Most Vital Test of Present Session of Tribunal.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Former Solicitor General Thomas D. Thacher today presents major arguments in support of the Electric Bond and Share company's challenge of constitutionality of the 1935 Public Utility Holding Company act before a seven-justice supreme court.

Thacher began oral argument of the case, regarded generally as the most important litigation to come before the high tribunal during its 1937-38 term, late yesterday.

He recounted how the second circuit court of appeals had affirmed a decree issued by the Southern New Yorw Federal District court compelling the company to register with the securities and exchange commission in compliance with the act's regulations.

Those regulations, the company contends, exceed constitutional bounds in that they constitute illegal regulation not authorized either by powers to regulate interstate commerce or the mails The company challenges particularly the penalty provision barring use of the mails or channels of interstate commerce to those utility holding companies refusing to comply with the registration provision.

Jackson Defends Act.

Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, whose nomination to succeed Justice Stanley F Reed as solicitor general is pending before the senate judiciary committee, and Benjamin V. Cohen, special assistant to the attorney general, will argue in defense of the act.

Reed, who as solicitor general technically was in charge of the government's conduct of the case in the circuit court, and signed memoranda urging the high court to consider it at the earliest possible time will not participate in the case. When it was called up yesterday, Reed promptly left the bench.

Justice Hugo L. Black, who voted for enactment of the measure in 1935 while he was a member of the senate, kept his seat, however, indicating he will participate in a decision on the litigation.

The number of justices participating in the case, however, was cut to seven by the absence of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, reported improving from a two-month illness which nearly proved fatal.

Validity of the high-controversial "death sentence" for attenuated utility holding companies provided under the act is not expected to be ruled on by the high court in deciding the bond and share case. Both the district and circuit court upheld the government's contention that only the registration and penalty provisions of the act are now up for review.

The company, in appealing to the high court, contended that the entire act must be considered as a whole, that the registration provisions are not separable.

MERCURY CLIMBS TO 45

Clear skies and a warm sun shoved the mercury up to 45 degrees in Mansfield today to mark the sixth consecutive day of above normal temperatures. The mercury will continue to climb tonight, the forecast said, with tomorrow due to bring rain and colder weather by night. The temperature reading early today was 24 above zero, Observer Otto Sprunger reported.

A Farmer's Diary

Feb. 7.

"I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree:
A tree whose hungry mouth is pressed
Against the earth's sweet-flowing breast.
. . . Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree."
—Joyce Kilmer.

I have often admired a white oak tree which stood in an open field and had large, spreading branches. The roots entered the ground so as to make a small grassy mound which sloped gradually into the field. Twenty feet back, I saw an old foundation, green with honeysuckle and wild myrtle, where once a dwelling stood. This tree was God's holy temple, and within its shelter one could worship. Its beauty was an eternal joy.

Tonight I watched two men approach the tree with a saw, an ax, a sledge and some steel wedges. I felt tragedy as I watched the shining blade of the ax on its outward swing, glinting in the western sunlight, and heard the heavy stroke reporting against the lower base of the trunk. When the deep gash was completed the heavy saw began to cut deeper and still deeper on the opposite side until its very heart was torn.

A little shivering movement of the top told that the steel wedge had done its work. The tree moved forward, its earth-bound ties severed and with one mighty crash, its branches swaying, it seemed to writhe upon the ground like a giant in death agony.

It had stood for almost a century, yet was not far beyond its prime. Its trunk was sound, without a flaw. It might have beautified the landscape for half a century more. —By C. A. B.

Rotary Club Sees Film Review Of 1937 Events.

Motion pictures of the bombing of the Panay, together with a review of important events of 1937, provided the program for Tuesday's Rotary meeting, held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Harry H. Delaney, manager of the Delcore Movie company, presented the program, which included a showing of color movies of last year's Fourth of July celebration in Mansfield.

Louis Hartman, vice president, presided at the meeting. W. L. Miller, president, and several other members of the Mansfield club were in Toledo for the day, attending a meeting at which Maurice Duperrey, of Paris, president of Rotary International, spoke at noon.

STATE AIDS IN SMALLPOX WAR

fices were crowded throughout the day.

Dr. W. G Fisher of the communicable disease division of the state department of health arrived in Mansfield yesterday to assist in the vaccination work. Two more physicians were dispatched this morning.

Dr. Rehder, Dr. Paul Baird, assistant commissioner, Dr. Fisher, and health department nurses worked until midnight last night vaccinating more than 1,000 persons who crowded into the city building. At 7 p. m. the crowd jammed the third floor of the building, extended down three flights of stairs and into the street.

Blames Mild Case.

Dr. Finley Van Orsdall, chief of the communicable disease division of the state health department, said today in Columbus the spread of smallpox in Richland county was probably caused by appearance of a mild case which at first was not recognized as the dread disease, International News Service dispatches to The News-Journal said.

"Necessary isolation steps probably were not taken with the initial outbreak." Dr. Van Orsdall said.

He declared that the health department had sent no serum to Richland county.

Only a few isolated cases of smallpox have been reported from other sections of the state.

As a steady stream of adults and children poured through the health department offices today, Dr. Rehder urged as many as possible to go to private physicians to be vaccinated. He said that vaccine was being supplied to all Mansfield physicians by the health department.

The 5,500 units of the smallpox serum which was ordered at the outbreak of the disease last Thursday, has been used up, according to Dr. Rehder, and another 5,000 units was being sent here from Cleveland and Columbus.

The latest cases reported to the health authorities were. Joseph Radojosics, 11, of 47 Auburn street, a pupil at Newman school; Margaret Armstrong, 11, and her brother, Bruce, 6, Wooster road, both pupils at Beer school.

The Madison township high school students were, William Moritz, 17, South Diamond road; Samuel Bissimer, 16, Springmill road; Eleanor Au, 14, and Virginia Au, 14, both of South Diamond road; Jack Swisher, 15, East Mansfield; Robert Wiemer, 17, and his brother, Walter, 14, both of Crider road, and Ernest Southerland, 17, of Ashland road.

The outbreak of the disease started last Thursday when the illness of Wayne E. Miller, principal of the Madison township high school was diagnosed by the attending physician as smallpox. Two other cases, both in the county, were reported the same day.

CLOSES DOWN ASSEMBLY LINE

Westinghouse Announces Halt In Refrigeration Production For Two-Week Period.

The refrigerator assembly line at the Mansfield plant of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company has been shut down for two weeks, the company announced today, due to the marked slow-up in the sale of electrical appliances

However, the company's statement indicated that employment conditions at the plant, were better than in many other industries, and that resumption of buying will bring a speedy return to work for those who have been laid off.

The payroll, exclusive of office employes, now lists 2,863 names, the company statement said, which compares favorably with a total of 3,733 a year ago, when industrial conditions were highly favorable.

"It's certainly no news that there's a recession in general business and that this recession has affected the electrical appliance industry," A. E Allen, Westinghouse vice president, said today. "but while the general recession has been severe in some parts, we in Mansfield have been pretty fortunate"

Allen explained that the recession was first felt last fall in the appliance line, and that at that time production was curtailed so that excessive stocks were avoided, and that the present lay-off would further prevent additional stock growth.

"Our over-all personnel will benefit materially by a more speedy return to work when the consumer buying movement starts" he said.

"It is impossible to predict our own local outlook," Allen added, "since it is so dependent on general business conditions. While the present recession is disturbing, we are optimistic that a general revival will be experienced in the next few months."

SPECULATE ON ROOSEVELT PLAN FOR OHIO'S PRIMARY CAMPAIGN

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's apparent interest in Ohio politics led today to speculation on whether the administration intends to interest itself in the approaching Ohio primary campaign.

The White House policy ordinarily is that of keeping "hands off" state primary contests. The administration, however, has made no secret of its intention to aid Sen. Alben Barkley in his campaign for re-election in Kentucky, probably to be waged against Gov. A. B. Chandler

Some observers believed the president might interest himself in the Democratic campaigns for governor or U. S. senator, or both, in Ohio

Sen. Vic Donahey of Ohio discussed the Ohio political situation with the president yesterday. It was understood that Sen. Donahey reiterated that he would not consider running for governor.

"Ohio Democrats can settle their primary problems without any help from the higher-ups," Sen. Donahey said after the conference.

He explained today that he meant no criticism of the president by that remark.

"I was referring to my own position," he said. "I have never taken any part in a primary except where I was a candidate myself."

Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, who has been a consistent New Deal supporter, discussed Ohio politics with the president last week.

FIGHTS STIGMA

Steubenville, 'City of Crime,' Acts For Clean-up.

STEUBENVILLE —(U.P.)— Seeking to rid the city of its stigma of a "city of crime," Service Director Eugene Boyd today had given orders to police to clear the city of all suspicious characters and "shoot to kill" persons of questionable character if they are seen on the streets after dark.

"Shoot and shoot to kill, and then ask for explanations," Boyd told members of the police department. "We are going to rid Steubenville of the underworld characters who have smirched its name at any cost."

Boyd's orders were in line with orders issued recently by Common Pleas Judge Arthu Hooper and the Jefferson grand jury to drive out gamblers and gangsters.

BUCYRUS GROUP LAUNCHES MUNY PARK PROGRAM

Liebich Named to Head Civic Campaign to Obtain New Recreation Center.

BUCYRUS—R. O. Liebrich, Bucyrus garden fancier, has been appointed chairman of a committee, to be known as the citizens' park committee, which is promoting plans for development of a municipal park in Bucyrus.

Probate Judge Constance R. Keller will serve the committee as secretary and E. C. Crall, treasurer.

Present plans for the group call for the addition of representatives of civic and social groups in the interest of a park movement which center about the Harmon playground location and extending south.

Plans of the group are to straighten Sandusky river between Sandusky and Lane streets and construct a road along the river bank. The plans also include construction of a swimming pool north of Harmon playground. The plan will be presented to the city council for its consideration at the next regular meeting.

PFLEIDERER RITES SET

BUCYRUS — Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Wise funeral home for John Pfleiderer, 69, former Bucyrus city fireman and lumber worker at Gledhill and Kime Lumber company, who died at the family home on Iron street Monday. Burial will be made in Oakwood cemetery.

Survivors include the widow, Elizabeth Chamber Fleiderer, and four children, Harry and Floyd of Bucyrus; Estella at home, and Murray of Los Angeles; one brother, Edward of Liberty township, and four sisters, Mrs. J. C. Durr of south of Bucyrus, Mrs. Elmer DeHays of Sulphur Springs and Mrs. Lloyd Howell of Galion.

The deceased was a member of the city fire department staff for 15 years retiring from the department in 1907. Since his retirement from the fire department he worked at the Gledhill-Kime Lumber company retiring from any active labor in 1934 due to ill health

CITY'S 525 BOY SCOUTS GO TO POLLS TONIGHT

Troops Elect 'City Officials' as Highlight of Scout Week Celebration.

Mansfield's 525 Boy Scouts will go to the polls tonight to vote for their own "city officials," who for one day next week will take over the reins of the city government, climaxing the observance here of National Boy Scout week, being celebrated throughout the nation this week.

The names of 20 scouts will appear on the ballots of the Liberal and Conservative parties. These candidates were nominated at the scouts' mayoralty primary held last Wednesday.

Heading the two tickets will be the race for mayor. The Liberal's candidate for mayor will be Ralph Arlin, and James Gadfield will be the mayoralty candidate on the Conservative ticket.

On Two Tickets.

Candidates whose names will appear on the Liberal ballot are: Robert Burns, municipal judge; Richard Weaver, president of council; Charles McClure, service-safety director; Robert Curry, chief of police; William Stahl, fire chief; Ralph Stanton, clerk of council; Robert Larson, city engineer; Lee Adams, James McClure, and James Curry, councilman-at-large; Robert Meese, city solicitor; Fred Lavender, city auditor, and Robert Brooker, first ward councilman, and Robert Stevenson, fourth ward councilman.

Candidates on the Conservative ballot along with James Gadfield, are Jake Sternbaum, chief of police; Harry Laser, clerk of council; William Hollingshead, city engineer, and Joseph Horvath, councilman-at-large.

Scouts will vote at their respective troop headquarters. The day the scouts will "run" the city has not been set as yet, but it will be some time next week, Floyd Dent, area scout executive, said.

Also scheduled for tonight is a special meeting of Troop No. 17 at Bushnell school. Parents and members of the school Mother's club will be guests of the troop. Scout activities scheduled for Wednesday night are the scoutmaster's training school at 7:30 at scout headquarters, and the annual Father and Scout banquet for Shelby scouts.

Then again, what's a Japanese editor to do when the emperor submits a poem?

Habit is strong, and it may well be wondered just how the Culbertsons will treat each other as bridge partners since they have become unmarried.

Vaccination Conquers Smallpox.

SMALLPOX, once a scourge that wiped out millions of people, has been so nearly conquered in recent times that few among younger people even have recollection of an occasional person who recovered from the disease but who was left disfigured by many depressed white scars, known as "pits."

Since the discovery of vaccination, in 1796, gradual progress has been made against the disease in this and other countries. In the United States, in particular, vaccination came into such general acceptance around fifty years ago that the terrible epidemics of earlier times have been largely escaped, and the disease, by immunization extending through successive generations, has gradually become less virulent.

There is need, however, for continued vigilance in guarding against occasional outcroppings of the disease in communities, especially among children who have never been vaccinated.

Long experience with vaccination as a preventive of smallpox has resulted in removing practically all of an earlier antagonism toward this method of guarding against contracting the disease.

With universal vaccination it appears likely that smallpox can be almost entirely eliminated from the United States within the next couple of generations.

World Affairs Brought to Mansfield.

MANSFIELD'S interest in world conditions was convincingly manifested Monday evening by the large attendance at the first of the series of five public forum meetings constituting the Institute of International Understanding, sponsored by the Rotary and University clubs of this city.

Aside from providing speakers of national and international prominence, this series of meetings offers opportunity for asking questions pertinent to the subjects discussed, thus providing information along lines that have already been engaging community thought.

The subject matter of Dr. Ethan Colton's talk last evening evidenced the value of close contact with the countries and peoples under discussion, gained through twenty years of study and unhurried tours of 39 countries during the course of 17 trips abroad.

With the Mansfield Public library co-operating in listing books which will be of special interest in connection with the further study of international relationships and problems, this course should prove of great value to many hundreds of people in this city and vicinity, experience being that the Institute is marked by steadily increasing attendance during its progress.

For next Monday evening, at Senior high school auditorium, the speaker is to be Alfred Edwards, member of the British parliament, whose subject will be "Organizing the World for Peace."

Good Record By Taxi Drivers.

MOTORISTS sometimes complain about the "recklessness" of taxi drivers, but if all drivers made as good safety records as the taxi men there would be a great improvement in traffic conditions. At a banquet in one large city recently 250 cab drivers were given special awards for habitual good driving.

There was one driver with seven and one-half years of taxi service and 184,000 miles of driving who had never had an accident in which he was at fault. There were a number of others who had driven five or more years without accident.

There are reasons for such records. In the first place, the men are skilled drivers and have lots of practice. They are careful because their jobs and livelihoods depend upon protecting their cars, themselves and their passengers. They obey traffic rules: if they didn't they'd not be able to keep their licenses. They keep their cars in good repair because they can't afford to have them break down in traffic or fail in performance at any time.

They have no monopoly on this style of driving. It can be adopted by every motorist interested in his own and others' safety.

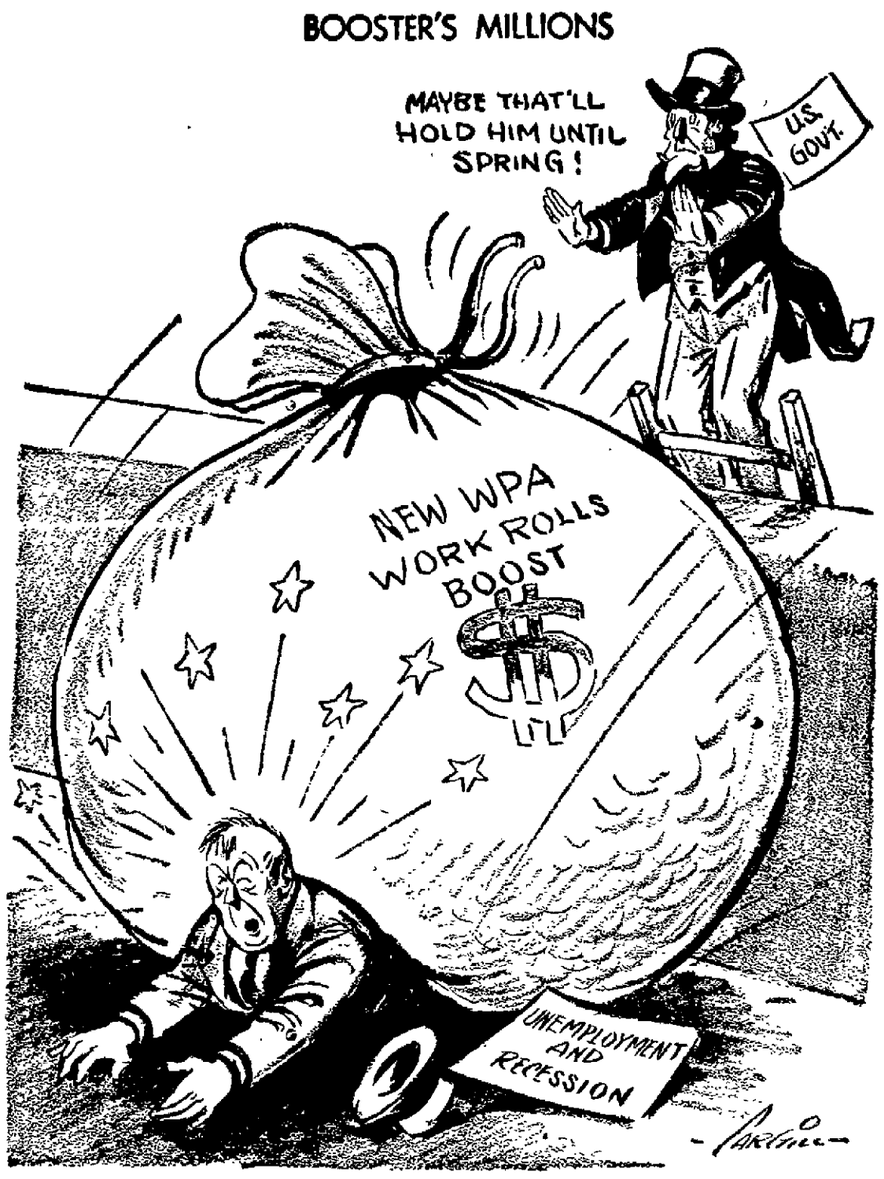
Talking About Another Canal.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL proposal bobs up again after a long period of silence. Representative Izac of California has introduced a bill in Congress authorizing construction of a waterway through that country, on a route which has the approval of the Nicaraguan government. The job would cost $700,000,000, nearly twice the first cost of the Panama Canal.

It was perhaps a political accident that this route wasn't followed in 1903. Sentiment seemed to favor Nicaragua, until Senator Hanna turned the senate to the Isthmus. The latter route has been satisfactory, and still seems adequate; but the strategists say a single passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific is risky. If the Panama locks were blown up by an enemy, or otherwise failed, our commerce would be seriously handicapped and our fleet might be trapped where it was useless in time of danger. Strategists say free passage for warships between the two oceans makes one fleet almost as useful as two would be without such a waterway. A second canal, for insurance, might add one-half to the present facilities. New problems on the Pacific, emphasized by the present Japanese war, give fresh interest to the project.

Fanny Brice says: "Put a pencil in my hand and my brain stops"—and right then, Fanny, is the time to write an article telling how to save the country.

Of all the little saplings growing up at about the same time only one became Charley McCarthy.



Pacific Navy Ratio Considered At Hearing

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Admiral William D. Leahy, Uncle Sam's chief of naval operations (which makes him top-ranking officer of our sea forces), resented it when Congressman Ralph Brewster of Maine asked him, as a witness before the house of representatives naval affairs committee whether our navy folk "originated the idea that five Americans" (five American warships) "are needed to lick three Japanese."

The admiral, as we know, replied that he never had heard such a suggestion before Congressman Brewster made it. He added that he would be "very happy" to take a 50-50 chance against the Japanese, and rather implied that a 25 American percentage against a 75 Japanese ratio (or thereabouts) would not alarm him.

He did not fully explain what he meant when he said he would be "very happy" to do it. Queer things would make these rough old sea dogs happy.

THE REAL QUESTION.

However, Congressman Brewster undoubtedly could have so framed his query as to have obtained a quite different rejoinder from Admiral Leahy.

American naval experts long have recognized that, in the event of a clash between Uncle Samuel and the mikado, the former certainly would have to carry hostilities into the mikado's home waters, or their neighborhood.

For example.

The Philippines, until virtual independence was extended to them, were a constant source of worry to our naval strategists.

HYPOTHETICAL CONDITION.

The northern end of the Philippine archipelago is a short night's steaming from a Japanese base at the southern end of Formosa.

Suppose the Japanese had undertaken a Philippine seizure. They could have been in possession and waiting, fully prepared, between nightfall and daybreak.

An American fleet could have arrived, all out of breath and sweaty, after nearly a week of forced voyaging.

Surely it is not too much to assert that the defensive force would have at least a 5-3 advantage.

Our navy always took this into account. It never admitted that, fight for fight, it could be beaten, but it did agree that a contest of the sort would be long drawn out—in fact, indefinitely.

LONG DRAWN OUT?

I do not think that the average Occidental naval fighting man has a very high opinion of Japanese efficiency

The Japanese is given credit as a good imitator—no more than that.

He could lick an essentially weak Russian fleet, as he did early in the Russian-Japanese war a generation ago, but no expert concedes that he could do it now, against any competent western power.

Nevertheless, as a raider (a pirate, put it), he might be a terrible nuisance. It might take a navy all out of proportions to his military size to lick him.

MEDITERRANEAN PIRACY.

The Mediterranean situation is illustrative of the difficulty.

Italian submarines are supposed to be engaged in piratical activities—but Italy does not officially admit it.

In fact, England, France and some of the smaller powers are engaged in fighting pirates.

But they can't say so.

If they did, they would recognize that international war is raging.

They have not the nerve to do it.

"Why Do the Wicked Flourish?"

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

TOUGH—isn't it?—to see some hard-boiled Slickster sitting pretty while so many Nice, Kind People are taken for a ride. Perhaps you've felt considerably burnt over it yourself . . . wondered if goodness pays. As young James G. Lutz of Pittsburgh, Pa., is doing *

"Why do the wicked flourish?" says he. "There's a problem I have never been able to solve. Everyone knows lots of cases of worthless, irresponsible creatures who never go to Church, or say the Lord's prayer, have tidy bank accounts and homes fit for a king.

"On the other hand, there is the good but poor man who goes to Church every Sunday. Yet his wife is always sick—his children wear tattered clothes. It seems that God-fearing people are doomed to live in want while sinners have wealth and health and happiness.

"THERE MUST BE SOMETHING WRONG SOMEWHERE!"

Yes, there's certainly something wrong—but why blame it on the Creator? The wicked flourish, not because God is an Old Meanie but—nine times out of ten—because the Righteous are softies. Our own conception of Good and Evil is often completely cockeyed. Goodness isn't a negative performance—it's a positive one Righteousness doesn't mean merely staying out of jail To the contrary, it means WADING INTO LIFE WITH ALL THE WALLOP YOU POSSESS. And when it comes to wading and walloping, the Wicked, all too often, have the Good backed off the boards.

Mind you, I'm casting no aspersions on the Truly Good . . . those brave, aggressive citizens who make a flaming adventure of fine living, and who are always to be found in the front line trenches of Holiness. Rather, I am referring to those rocking chair saints who think God should come across just because they can recite the 23rd Psalm and don't play craps I have yet to see this brand of Godliness blessed

As the old slogan says—"IT IS NOT ENOUGH TO BE GOOD . . . YOU MUST BE GOOD FOR SOMETHING." Any stupid, lazy, cowardly heel can LOOK good, but it takes gobs of gumption to be actually righteous. Examine the record of all Real Saints and you'll find plenty of spiritual brass-knuckles.

The Wicked flourish, not because God has a sneaking liking for them, but because they are Go-Getters Life needs Go-Getters and rewards them.

Man was created to be the greatest go-getter of all. He was intended to think definitely, plan positively, act vigorously. And, it is both strange and sad, but the Wicked frequently fulfill this admonition far better than the Godly. In their warped and wanton way, such 16-cylinder Sinners come nearer to obeying the Law of Life than the sanctimonious Do-Nothings. They will undoubtedly Get Theirs, some day, but at present they're apt to be making 12 per cent on most investments.

FAITH and FORCE—these qualities lie behind all achievement. They are psychic dynamite, and they work as energetically for the Sinner as the Saint. If Good People had a tenth as much faith in themselves and their principles as the Bad People have, we'd have Paradise pronto. But again the Sinner monopolizes the fireworks and leaves the Saint to his Psalms and self-pity.

God doesn't desert the Righteous. They desert themselves—and Him. God has given the good exactly the same makings for an abundant life which He has given the wicked—but the wicked use their makings and the good don't. They, all too often, go on relief instead.

Timely Editorial

City Manager Birthday.

This year marks the 30th anniversary of the introduction of city manager government in the United States. The event calls attention to the movement which began when Staunton, Va., passed an ordinance in 1908 to hire a "general manager" to run its affairs.

The growth of the movement in a generation has been slow, although it can boast a total of 465 cities and seven counties. It has progressed by spurts, enjoying great popular attention some years and experiencing declining interest in other years.

However, in spite of an absence of ballhoo, 11 cities in 1937 joined the list of council-manager cities. None of these communities is very large and therefore has not served to give a great impetus to the idea. When the first large city, Dayton, attempted the new governmental experiment in 1913 considerable stimulus was lent to the movement in general.

As advocates of this type of city government look over the achievements of the past 30 years they can take a great deal of assurance from the fact that the city manager idea is still lusty and bringing in new converts every year.—St. Paul Dispatch.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

THE EXTINGUISHED FLAME: Yea, the light of the wicked shall be put out, and the spark of his fire shall not shine.—Job 18:5.

Keeping Step

Burke—Chief Opponent of New Deal.

—By LESLIE EICHEL

WHO is the chief opposition to the New Deal in the senate? Not a Republican, as one would expect, but Edward Raymond Burke of Nebraska. He is a Democrat in name only, if President Roosevelt represents the Democratic party.

Burke is the one man that Big Business (and small business as represented by the recent meeting in Washington) depends upon to "stop Roosevelt."

And the worst of it (from the New Deal point of view) Senator Burke does not come up for re-election until 1940. Now it would be expected that a state which could send Uncle George W. Norris to the senate as an independent would reject a Burke. But no one can be sure. Immense sums of money could be poured into Nebraska to save Burke if there should be doubts in the minds of his supporters in 1940.

Burke, who led the fight against the president's supreme court plan, has been the most persistent attacker of the National Labor Relations board. J. Warren Madden, chairman of the board, finally answered. Testifying before the senate judiciary committee, considering Burke's resolution for an investigation of the board, Madden asserted that Burke's charges were based on "misinformation, half-truths and trivialities." Incidentally, Burke does not expect the resolution for an investigation to be adopted.

The NLRB has had to fight an attempt in the senate on another score. The Burke group has been trying to curtail its activities by cutting its appropriation. Liberals headed by Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin has led a counter-attack to save the appropriation.

NO PEACE

Speaking of labor, there is no more likelihood of peace between the CIO and the A. F. of L. than between the New Deal Democrats and the Conservative Democrats, or the democratic nations and the Fascist nations.

Such movements are deeply moving world movements. Opponents may try to picture them as the result of ambitious leaders, but the leaders merely are riding the wave. It is certain that the 4,000,000 CIO members (and the many more that yet will join) will not "move the clock back" to what appears to them to be an outmoded instrument.

"SMALL BUSINESS"

What is "small business?" The men who went to Washington were in the $50,000-$150,000 class. Men of less than that usually belong either to the "white collar" class or to labor or to agriculture.

Now the administration is learning, as labor has long since learned, that the most difficult business to organize is the kind in the $50,000-$150,000 class. Much of it considers itself a law unto itself, resents restrictions as "infringements on personal liberty"

Labor prefers to deal with "monopolies," with Big Business.

The public (from reactions gathered) was somewhat shocked at the conference of "small business" in Washington. It seemed "rough house," anarchistic, anti-social. Many fine and sincere men were among the persons there and they, too, were a bit shocked and embarrassed by the actions and speech of some.

WATCH THIS

U. S. Steel and the CIO are negotiating a new contract for steel workers. A satisfactory agreement is said to be near. It is likely to be an unusual contract. It may provide for lower wages if steel prices are reduced to stimulate consumption.

The idea is being credited to John L. Lewis. But conservative economists also have been urging lower prices on all manufactured products.

WHY BORROW?

Why should the second richest corporation—U. S Steel—borrow $50,000,000 from banks to continue its rehabilitation program?

1. The decrease in earnings in the last quarter had reduced cash on hand to a lower level than desired. Upturn may be slow

2. Continuation of the $200,000,000 improvement program will (a) keep men at work and (b) modernize the plant so that cheaper operation will accrue.

3. Market conditions are not good for the sale of a common stock issue, and U. S. Steel does not desire to involve itself in heavy interest payments through the sale of bonds. In the last few years it has saved millions through refunding. It can pay off bank loans as it earns the money—this year, yet, it hopes.

Not all of this last year's $99,000,000 net was ploughed into the business. It will be recalled that the corporation paid arrears on preferred stock. And it had to pay $32,000,000 in undistributed profits' tax.

FEW BORROWERS

Big banks are having difficulty finding large borrowers of AAA quality. They even are meeting competition from large corporations. With business slack, Bethlehem Steel is said to have $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 in idle cash it would like to lend, at a good rate.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

"Prudent Investment" Wins.

By ELIOT JONES
Professor of Transportation and Public Utilities, Stanford University.

In his Portland speech in the campaign of 1932 the president came out flatly for the prudent investment theory of valuation, as opposed to the cost of reproduction theory under which there had been many write-ups of public utility property.

His contention was that public utilities should charge rates that give them a fair return on the amount of money prudently invested in the property employed by them in the public service, and not on the estimated cost of reproducing the property.

The president's ideas on this matter are in line with those long held by most of the public service commissions and by most of the disinterested students of valuation problems.

The president recently has had numerous conversations with public utility executives, in the endeavor to establish the basis for a truce with the utility industry, and thus break the dam that has been holding back a large amount of badly needed construction in this field. In these conversations the president has insisted upon the acceptance by public utility executives of the prudent investment theory of valuation; and apparently with some success.

The retirement of Justice Sutherland from the supreme court creates a new situation, and gives the president assurance that he can realize his objective, no matter what may be the attitude of the utility executives.

In previous decisions of the court on public utility valuations the liberal members have favored the prudent investment theory, memorable opinions in its support having been written by Justice Brandeis; but the majority has been on the other side. Assuming that Justice Black and Justice Reed will be of the president's opinion (and Justice Black in decisions recently rendered has made it clear that he agrees with the president), there will soon be a majority of the court favorable to the president's contention, and he can at last attain his objective without the approval of the public utility executives.

In another respect the retirement of Justice Sutherland may be expected to have a marked effect upon public utility regulation. In years gone by the supreme court has on a number of occasions distinguished between private business and businesses affected with a public interest (public utilities); and it has declared unconstitutional certain state statutes that imposed on private business regulations deemed appropriate only to businesses affected with a public interest.

The majority position on this matter has been roundly criticized by a vigorous minority, which has insisted that the state has constitutional power to regulate any business within its jurisdiction; and which has maintained that the constitutional prohibition against depriving a person of his property without due process of law means only that the action of the state must not be unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

It may be taken for granted that the president will make his next appointment to the supreme court with the same care that he executed in the appointment of Solicitor General Reed, and that the court as reconstructed will have a majority favorable to the view that the businesses heretofore regarded as private are fully subject to regulation to the extent deemed necessary to protect the public welfare.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

THAT dusky Harlem gal Josephine Baker is again the amazing dancing sensation of Paris, following her marriage to a rich white Parisian. Many thought her popularity might suffer with the reports of her terrific flop at the Winter Garden here a year ago.

She danced off in almost dead silence. But Paris hailed her with more fervor than ever. Reactions abroad are often puzzling. Over in Moscow the colored singer Paul Robeson is so idolized in his concert and dramatic roles that he is likely to remain permanently.

Bette Davis is probably the favorite female movie star in Europe. While Chaplin is something of a favorite everywhere his most enthusiastic receptions are in Japan. Before the revolution in Spain, the elder Fairbanks was far and away the biggest box office draw among the dons.

In London they still have a warm spot for Tallulah Bankhead, and for almost ten years shouting Sophie Tucker has been one of the most popular night club warblers. They also like Belle Baker. And strutting Harry Richman can open almost anywhere at any time.

The talk of hoteldom has been the come-back of the venerable Hotel Astor under guidance of the one-armed Bob Christenberry. When he was appointed to his post four years ago, the Broadway debacle had set in and the entire street, as well as the famous inn, was in the depths of a physical, financial and social depression. Christenberry had had a colorful career as a marine. In the front line trenches one day an enemy hand grenade fell at his feet. He picked it up and threw his right hand out of the trench with the grenade, thereby saving eleven lives and his own. As a first step in jousting the Astor out of its rut, he had a million spent on improvements. He operates on a revision of the old saw of the hotel world. In his book, it reads: "The customer is not always right but the right customer is never wrong."

Donald Ogden Stewart and Bob Benchley, long time friends, are reputed the drollest comedians extant when teamed at private parties. So often were they jockeyed into free entertainment that someone tells me—and it's likely exaggeration—they will no longer attend functions together. However, the gift of comedy eventually hangs heavily on its practitioners. Wherever they go they are expected to keep everybody in stitches. It has driven a number into isolation. Comedians generous with their comedy, such as Frisco and Jack Osterman, so often face long stretches of "at liberty." Mark Twain in later years said: "People should pay for a good laugh the same as for a good painting. Each is a phase of art."

Hope Williams has been seen at some of the auspicious openings this winter after a season or so of semi-retirement. A few years ago she somehow caught the fancy of playgoers with her loping walk, metallic and draggy voice—plus an acid cynicism she mastered rather expertly. Every young boarding school girl so tried to achieve the same lope and viscous speech that it got to be a headache. Oh, yes. Miss Williams was three-sheeted as of social prominence, and that often helps in the New York, build-up.

Speaking of acting, some photographers were around today to get poses of the Boston for a magazine. He didn't care much for it at first and barked his head off when the bulb flashed. But finally he seemed to get the idea and was posing all over the place, staying put wherever posed. There is a streak of "ham" in most dogs. Alf Loyal's famous stage pooches worked far better when the audience was friendly and they never tired of coming back for bows. Paul Seydell's Spotty—the ace of performers—trembles like a leaf upon receiving an unusual burst of applause, and tugs to get back and do his stunt over again.

Disillusion: The white-haired secretarial lady next table at Schrafft's last evening finished her meal with a float of brandy in coffee and a cigaret. And then gazed out in one of those unseeing ponders. Grave problems at the office and all that! But in a little while she glanced about furtively and from a handbag took out a tabloid and spread it at a certain comic strip.

DEMONSTRATES TEACHING HERE

Authority On Instruction of Reading Visits City Schools.

Miss Edwina Morrow, Cincinnati, an authority on the teaching of reading in elementary schools, was in Mansfield today for a two-day visit to give demonstrations at Brinkerhoff and Hedges schools.

Miss Morrow will instruct classes in reading at both schools, with reading teachers from other grade schools in the city invited to "listen in." Special attention will be given to fourth, fifth and sixth grade classes.

Following the demonstrations Miss Morrow will answer questions concerning teaching methods.

'CHASE' WIND

Firemen Find Out 'Alarms' Caused By Short-Circuit.

LA GRANDE — (INS) — Two companies of firemen ran down several false leads while answering alarms before they discovered they were "chasing the wind." Investigation revealed the alarms, which indicated a different address each time they rang, were caused by a short-circuit as the result of a high wind.

CHAPTER XXIII

When she unlocked the door and led the way into her living room, Terry gave a low whistle.

"I see—a parlor. So the conventions are served. No wonder you weren't enthused over the Y. W. This is quite doggy—and some view from your casement." He strolled over to the window and stared at the shadowy lake.

"I like it very well," Caradad remarked easily, removing her hat and tossing it on the table. "So well, that I think I'll keep it for a while. It's really a joke—what I pay for it. The judge must have considerable influence with the management."

"Fine. I'm glad you are not thinking of leaving us — right away."

"Well, there's no reason why I should go back I suppose that Chicago is a funny place to spend the summer in, but there are lots of things I'd like to do here—so—"

"Yes," murmured Terry thoughtfully, "it's a very pleasing prospect, when you look at it from—a place like this"

"It's growing too dark to really appreciate it," Caradad observed "Take that chair there; it's the really comfortable one here And light your pipe."

She sat in silence watching him, until his briar seemed to be drawing satisfactorily.

"What have you to report, Terry?"

"Report?" he asked curiously, peering at her through a cloud of smoke "Nothing in particular, I reckon"

"Are you sure"

"Sure What are you getting at?"

"I think you know, Terry," she said slowly. "Are you still as silly as you were—the last time we talked?"

"Please, Dad . "

"That's what I mean Are you going to let me help you . . . with a loan?"

"No" Terry's firm white teeth closed hard on his pipestem.

"Why?"

"I told you, Dad I can't take money from a girl"

"Just a . . . girl"

"Well, then, a girl friend."

"I see." Caradad rested her chin in her palm and studied Terry's face in the gathering shadows. After a long moment, she said quietly, "Supposing the girl happened to be—your fiancee What then"

A slight snap broke the stillness of the little living room. It was Terry's pipestem He leaned down hurriedly and searched over the rug with his fingers until he found the bowl. The sole of his shoe rubbed out the glowing crumbs of tobacco

"Excuse me, Dad But what the devil did you say?"

"I think you heard me What difference would it make? I want to know"

"Well . . " Terry laughed mirthlessly "In the first place, I have no fiancee. If I did have, and if she insisted upon emptying her pocketbook into my lap—I might let her. You see, I'd figure there would be no rush in returning it. She'd see that I paid eventually, through the nose."

"But you would let her help you"

"Sure. if I needed it"

"And you do need it, Terry, badly."

"I see. You've been talking to Gerta—or rather, she's been talking to you." Terry's voice was chilly. "I'm sorry that you had to know."

"Listen, Terry." Caradad had expected that. "The information came to me—from a man. Very unexpectedly. I am not even sure that you know him . . ."

"Oh, yes, you're sure."

Caradad caught her breath sharply. Terry was thinking of John Severance, and it wasn't fair. Severance had been very careful not to say anything. She said slowly, "I'm afraid there are more people know about it than you think. My information came in a roundabout way. Now that I know it's . . . dangerous, you must let me do something."

"I've already told you I wouldn't, Dad. Let's skip it."

Although Terry spoke quietly enough, Caradad knew from other days that he was trying to control his temper.

"We're going to fix this thing up, Terry We've been friends ever since I was born and that gives me some rights I wasn't trying to be funny when I asked you that question. You gave me the idea on the way up—when you asked me if I were trying to compromise you That's what I'm going to do — if you make me"

"I don't get you"

"You just told me that you had no fiancee. I'll take the job."

In the silence that followed, Caradad could feel Terry's eyes boring through the shadows, trying to read hers. She sat motionless and waited for him to speak

"You're crazy, Dad! I mean you're not serious!"

"Yes, I am It's nothing to be worried over. You don't even have to propose to me—I've done it There's nothing so terrible about such an arrangement, is there."

"No. It's merely impossible."

"Is it? Well, then, as Pop used to say let's get down to cases If the thing happens to you—you know what I mean—then what? It's the end Even if it's only a few years, it will break you You'd have to start all over again and where you weren't known I'm not sure you would take the trouble to start. You can't waste what you've done and what you are And there's your father and mother to consider. I'm not trying to buy you. Engagements have been broken and ours can be later on—whenever you say But, the more I think of it, I believe it will be better for both of us to make it—well, on the up and up As far as your friends are concerned That is, if—if there's no one else.

"There isn't." Terry said quickly. 'Not the way you mean Dad. I'm not in love with anybody, never have been and am not sure I ever could be That goes for you, too"

"That's all right." Caradad said evenly "I don't mind"

"But I do! What sort of a hombre do you take me for? Pose as your fiance while you get me out of a jam Take your money, provided you had enough, and maybe be unable to pay it back when you need it. Why the devil should I drag you into anything like that? I'd rather go through with it and have nobody but myself to feel sorry for or blame, either."

Caradad's reply was a softly uttered "Damn!" And before Terry could reply she went on heatedly, "I don't understand your kind of pride You'd accept lifelong disgrace, rather than swallow it. You don't think of your family or your friends, do you? Well, I made up my mind last night that I was going to help you, if I had to rope you and stuff the money in your pocket. I'm still going to And just because you're so bullheaded, I'm going to make you do it on my terms. Just how much will it take to make you —safe? Will twenty-five thousand do it?"

"What!" Terry managed it with a gasp.

"Maybe I'd better turn on the lights" Caradad went to a floor lamp near Terry's chair and snapped the switch. She smiled a little, as she saw the expression in his eyes, saw that his firm lower jaw was sagging incredulously.

"Well . . .?" she questioned crisply "Will it?"

"What' he croaked. "You—you said twenty-five grand!"

"Yes," she assured him and returned to her chair "I didn't know, of course. So I wired Judge Pomphrette last night. I told him I wanted that much—in some shape that would be negotiable in a hurry. That I wanted it pronto. If there isn't time, I could write a check and get your bank to wire mine, I suppose. But the judge will take care of it. He has my power of attorney—in most everything He must have gotten my night letter this morning."

"And a stroke of apoplexy," Terry groaned. "You didn't tell him what it was for, did you?"

"Oh, of course not," was the impatient reply "The judge is rather hard to handle, but that's another reason for following out my plan. Don't you see? If I tell him we are engaged . . . well, what can he say? What can anybody say? Is that enough to fix things for you?"

"My dear! I didn't know there was that much money in the world."

"Then it is enough"

"I hope to tell you! I—I'm not a big time crook, Dad." He tried to speak lightly, but it was an attempt to disguise a sudden tight feeling in his throat

"I feel relieved," Caradad went on brightly. "I've been worrying all day for fear it might not be enough or it wouldn't get here soon enough—or something. I was on pins and needles until you phoned me, for I didn't know how to reach you. Now, before you go, please don't forget to leave your phone number."

Terry stared at her helplessly and said nothing.

"After all, it's simple. You let me know how much you need to square yourself all around . . . everywhere. Then you can tackle your work without having to worry and it will be smooth sailing. Don't you really think that is much better than trying to—to go through with things?"

Terry drew a deep breath. "I don't know what to say, Dad. I can't figure it"

"I'm sure I don't see why not. We'll make it a straight business proposition—any way you want it. I'm just giving you a lift, the same as you would me"

"But, Dad . . ."

"I know. It's okay."

"But . . . but I feel like a rotter. I'll come clean with you. I'm facing a trip to the pen. I thought I could get away with something and . . . didn't. Just the same as a lot of other smart guys. I wasn't too good to take my medicine, but . . . it was tough."

"Of course it was, Terry. Nobody could ever make me believe you were—anything more than a little careless You always have been like that, you know"

"Not that low."

"Well, we don't have to worry over that. And, Terry, you don't really care if I tell the judge that we're engaged, do you? You've no idea how much simpler it will make things."

"Tell him whatever you like, Dad. He'll probably shoot me on sight. I haven't enough nerve for the job myself"

"Don't be silly! I'd hate you—if I thought you meant it. All I hope is that my idea won't make things too difficult for you with . . . your friends."

"I'm not worrying about my friends. Only you, Dad It makes me feel like a heel. You needn't be afraid that I'll ever let you down, or that I won't make good . . . after this.

"I know you will"

"I reckon," Terry said slowly, "there's some truth in what they say about a drowning man grabbing at a straw. That's the only excuse I can figure for doing—what I'm doing. I still don't see why you should bother with me."

"Well," Caradad answered soberly, "I think it will be rather interesting—in lots of ways. It will give me an interest. I need one now . . . since I sold the ranch."

IN THE warehouses Mr. Pinnix has managed in Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, 46,000,000 pounds of tobacco have been sold. Farmers travel many miles to bring their crops to Mr. Pinnix's warehouse for sale. Reason is that they respect his tobacco experience and business integrity. So surely Mr. Pinnix's views are worth your respect, too.

"At every market I've ever attended," says Mr. Pinnix, "Lucky Strike has bought the ripest, mellowest tobacco offered. That's why I've smoked Luckies ever since I first became a warehouseman 20 years ago."

Mr. Pinnix's statement is borne out by sworn records which show that, among independent tobacco experts—auctioneers, buyers, and warehousemen—Luckies have over twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

Sworn Records Show That... WITH MEN WHO KNOW TOBACCO BEST-IT'S LUCKIES 2 TO 1

HAVE YOU HEARD "THE CHANT OF THE TOBACCO AUCTIONEER" ON THE RADIO? When you do, remember that Luckies use the finest tobacco. And also that the "Toasting" process removes certain harsh irritants found in all tobacco. So Luckies are kind to your throat.

WEEKLY BUSINESS SERVICE SECTION

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL

No. 13
Deductions For Professional Expenses.

A professional man may deduct all necessary expenses incurred in the pursuit of his profession. These include the cost of supplies used in his practice, office rent, cost of light, water, fuel, and telephone in his office, the hire of office assistants, and expenses paid in the operation and repair of an automobile, based upon the proportion of time it is used in making professional calls or for other professional purposes.

Many physicians use their residences both as their offices and their homes. In such instances the physician may deduct as a business expense the rental value of the rooms occupied for office purposes if he actually pays rent, and also cost of light and heat furnished these rooms. Also, he may deduct a portion of the wages paid domestic servants whose time is partly occupied in caring for these rooms. Membership dues in professional societies are deductable. Physicians and dentists who keep in their waiting rooms current magazines and newspapers for the benefit of their patients may deduct this item as a business expense. The cost of professional journals for the taxpayer's own use is also a deductable item.

The cost of technical books is not a deductable item, being a capital expenditure, but a proprtionate amount for each year's depreciation of the books may be deducted. Depreciation may also be taken on office furniture and equipment. Insurance premiums on office or other professional equipment and liability insurance may be deducted. A premium paid for automobile liability insurance should be apportioned and that part of the premium attributable to business may be deducted as a business expense.

GIVES CATARRH VICTIMS ADVICE

Many People Will Profit From Surprising Story of Aged Ohio Farmers Life.

"If the people of Mansfield and vicinity who are troubled with catarrh—either slightly or seriously—will heed my advice they will start using World's Tonic at once," said an aged farmer near Mansfield, Ohio.

"I know about catarrh if I know about anything at all, because I'm an old man and I've suffered from catarrh about all my life.

"I first noticed catarrh when I was 20. Like many others, I didn't do anything about it. I had a headache once in awhile and was troubled with mucous dripping into my throat and I didn't think that was serious enough to do anything about. Well, I'll tell you what happened. Within a short time, the catarrh had become so bad that my stomach was severely affected. I became dyspeptic, belched, bloated and had no appetite, lost weight and strength and my health generally went down rapidly. This in addition to the distress of catarrh in my head, nose and throat.

"I started fighting catarrh right away then. But it had gotten too good a hold About all I could do was to keep it from getting worse. The truth is I couldn't find a good remedy—never did find one until I got this World's Tonic recently. World's Tonic has proved to be a wonder. It has done me more good in ten days than anything else ever did in ten years. That's a fact. World's Tonic is relieving my catarrh entirely. I no longer have to get up three or four times at night as my kidneys and bladder are working all right. I no longer have to take nasty physics every night because my bowels are now regullated.

"But as I said in the first place, don't let catarrh get a hold on you. Start fighting it right away. If you don't you'll be sorry. And use World's Tonic because it's the best thing I've found in a good many years of searching."

This aged man knows from experience. Take his advice. See your druggist today. Sold by Central Drug Store, and all other good druggists. (A-164)

EVERY 20TH CAR TO FIGURE IN CRASH AT PRESENT TRAFFIC TOLL

The driver of every 20th car in this country will be in an accident resulting in the death or injury of a man, woman, or child this year, if automobile accidents continue at their present rate.

Year after year the toll of motor vehicle accidents in the United States has been increasing. In one year about 36,000 people died in traffic, and more than 1,000,000 were injured—many crippled for life.

Everyone agrees that unwarranted speed accounts for most of the increase in automobile fatalities. Few people agree, however, as to the conditions under which certain speeds are out of place.

Ten miles an hour may be too fast for some conditions — icy roads, for example; while 45 may not be too fast on certain highways. High speed is out of place—

After dark or when pavements are wet or icy.

When you plow past crossroads or through villages at the same rate at which you travel while on the open highway.

When you approach an intersection or when you see children playing in or near the street.

When you round a curve or turn a corner.

For safe driving an autoist should know how quickly he can stop his car. You may feel that driving at 60 miles an hour is safe under favorable conditions, but here are facts!

AT 60

—your car is covering 88 feet each second.

—you travel about four car lengths between the time you realize the necessity to stop and the time you can place your foot on the brake. (This is the "reaction distance" of the average driver.)

—you cover at least 11 more car lengths after you apply the breaks before you can stop—this is about nine times as far as at 20 miles an hour.

—If you strike anything, the impact is the same as it would be if you drove your car off a 12-story building. No wonder a fast moving coupe can turn over a 10-ton truck!

You are most likely to drive too fast on long trips. After traveling a while you are apt to "step her up a little." After several hours, the hum of the engine and the monotony of the road help to dull your sense of caution—you become physically tired and your "reaction distance" increases.

The Lincoln Mutual Indemnity company and the Continental Automobile Mutual Insurance company whose home offices are located in Mansfield, are staunch advocates of safety in driving.

They seek to impress the public that reckless driving and high accident frequency are bound to have two results—a multitude of heartaches, and last but not least, exorbitant insurance rates.

"Far too many of us feel that we are always careful drivers and that if is the other fellow who is reckless and at fault in the many near accidents which occur," the companies point out.

"The real truth of the matter is, if we will but analyze the situation honestly, that the large majority of us are constantly doing many reckless things and are doing them thoughtlessly without due consideration for the other fellow, or for the weather or the road conditions which may exist."

The Lincoln and Continental Mutuals have established themselves over a period of years among the city's most stable businesses. They are conservatively operated organizations, accepting only select risks.

Getting Loaves Ready for Oven at Uhlich's

Fliers Offer Fine Lesson In Safety And Precaution

The veteran fliers who daily pilot their planes through the skyways of the world offer a fine lesson in precaution and safety. Here are some facts that should interest every thoughtful motorist.

Transatlantic birdmen, crack aces of the army air corps, and airline pilots alike regard their planes as living things. They "baby" their motors at all times and make certain that no undue strain is ever placed upon them. A good airman never begins a flight until his motor has been thoroughly "warmed up" — from 10 to 15 minutes. Commercial airline planes often are "warmed up" for more than 30 minutes before the scheduled take-off time.

The sound of a smooth-running motor is pleasant music to the ears of the airman. He detects immediately the slightest roughness, and should his motor drop even a few revolutions in speed, he turns it over to a skilled mechanic immediately.

Many experienced motorists are learning that it pays to have their cars checked regularly by trained service men. Pure Oil dealers in this vicinity feature Bumper-to-Bumper service which includes complete check-up and servicing of your car to insure safe operation of all working parts. The Tiolene motor oil which they sell, is approved by leading airplane motor manufacturers for aviation use.

Pure Oil dealers not only use the type of lubricants approved by the car manufacturer, but follow a scientific Pure Chek-Chart which diagrams each lubrication point on your make and model car, and specifies the correct lubricant for each.

Dough Mixed In Air Conditioned Room at Uhlich's

An air conditioned dough room, the only one of its kind in Mansfield, is one of the features of the J. F. Uhlich bakery, 428 Springmill street.

In this room where the ingredients that are used in making bread and other baked goods are mixed, the air is washed, kept in constant circulation at a fixed temperature. The mixing is done by a mechanized unit.

From the air conditioned dough room which is the first step in the manufacture of a loaf of bread, the dough is placed in a dividing machine where it is cut into uniform loaves and weighed. From there it goes into a rounding machine, and then into a molder. The next step is being placed in pans for proofing to allow the dough to raise before going into the oven.

After the stay in the oven, the loaves are left on racks to cool to 90 degrees Wrapping and slicing by the latest type Battle Creek wrapping machine follow and the finished product is ready for delivery to scores of independent Mansfield grocery and dairy stores which handle Uhlich baked goods.
